Congressional, other reactions to Ford's program--page 3

Ford takes new stance, asks 12% rebate on '74 personal income taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scrapping much of his go-easy economic program, President Ford will seek tough new antirecession measures: a 12 per cent rebate on 1974 personal income taxes, import barriers that will lead to higher gasoline prices and a lid on most federal spending.

"We are in trouble," the President told a national television audience Monday in a speech from the White House library that previewed Wednesday's State of the Union message.

Ford said the country is not on the brink of a 1930-style depression. He indicated WIN buttons are no longer enough and said the government must take strong measures to counter unemployment and recession as well as inflation. Among them:

—A 12 per cent rebate on last year's federal income taxes, up to $1,000 per tax return, that would release $12 billion of potential purchasing power to consumers. An average family of four earning $12,000 in 1974 and paying $1,228 in taxes would get $147.36 in two equal payments in May and September.

—$4 billion in investment tax incentives for business.

—A $30 billion increase in energy taxes and tariffs designed to make Americans cut down on the use of gasoline and fuel oil. This will likely mean a sudden price hike of about 7 cents a gallon in retail gasoline with even higher prices to come.

—A one-year moratorium on new federal spending programs and a clear threat to veto any new money measures passed by Congress.

—A temporary 5 per cent ceiling on federal pay increases and a similar lid on automatic boosts in Social Security benefits and government and military retirement.

Ford said he would use his emergency powers to raise the tariff, or import fee, on petroleum by $3 a barrel within 90 days. The idea is to encourage conservation and development of alternative sources of energy to high priced Middle East crude oil.

Most of the program will require Congress' approval, and early reaction showed Ford's desire to give even wealthy taxpayers a slice of the 1974 rebate was in for tough sledding.

"Any credit for 1974 taxes would have to be given to the low and moderate income group to be acceptable to Congress in my judgment," said Al Ullman, D-Ore., and acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, the panel that must clear all tax bills.

Ullman agreed with Ford on the amount of money needed to stimulate the slumping economy —$43 billion that is likely to leave Ford, an avowed fiscal conservative, sporting the biggest budget deficit since the free-spending New Deal administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Most of that sum derives from energy tax revenues that Ford said should be passed through to consumers, businesses and local governments in the form of payments and credits. This includes a cash payment to the poorest Americans who pay no income tax at all.

Ford chose the informal setting of the basement library, at times standing near a blazing fireplace, to convey his stern message to the country.

"Americans are at their very best when the going is rough," he said at the outset. "Right now the going is rough and it may get rougher. But if we do what must be done, we will be well on our way to better days."

A few hours earlier, House Democratic leaders laid down their remedies for the nation's ills including limited wage-price controls on the biggest industries, allocation of credit to housing and small business, more public service jobs and tax cuts of more than $10 billion.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., author of the Democratic alternative, said after the speech that the President "wasn't very long on alternatives except for his statements about the tax cut, which I find very attractive."

Ford, on the other hand, continued to shun wage-price controls. He asked labor and management to show voluntary restraint. "No one will be allowed to prosper from the temporary hardships most of us bear willingly," he added.

But the emphasis on volunteerism and inflation as "public enemy No. 1" —so much a theme of Ford's earlier economic policy —was missing. "The reason is that the situation has changed," he said. "You know it and I know it.

"What we need most urgently today is more spending money in your pockets rather than in the Treasury in Washington."

Killer storm moves east as death toll increases

By United Press International

A killer snow storm which buried the Midwest under heavy snows and assailed the Appalachians rumbled off to attack New England today, leaving behind it a heavy shroud of snow and a climbing death toll.

The total of storm-related deaths stood at 53 today and authorities were searching for at least nine persons reported missing in the aftermath of the storm's march across the Midwest.

Seven inches of snow piled up in Concord, N.H., and four inches of snow was reported in Worcester, Mass., and heavy snow warnings were in effect for Maine and New Hampshire.

Temperatures dropped sharply Monday as the storm launched its assault on New England, where a day earlier sunshine and spring-like temperatures had brought residents out from their winter's hibernation.

Weekend temperatures had reached the 60s in Boston and the 40s and 50s elsewhere, but the mercury plummeted to the teens and 20s Monday as the storm approached.

The storm brought New York City its first snow of the season Monday night, but it ended as quickly as it started. The National Weather Service had predicted three to five inches of snow for the area and issued a heavy snow warning, but the city received only a dusting and the warning was canceled.

National Guard troops manned snow-moving equipment and hay-lifting helicopters in the blizzard-clogged Midwest, the site of the storm's weekend seige.

Schools were closed and traffic was snarled Monday in the Appalachians as the storm lumbered over the area, dumping a knee-deep blanket of snow.

The National Weather Service said parts of Pennsylvania received up to 15 inches of snow from the storm and West Virginia and Tennessee got up to 12 inches. A foot of snow at Charleston, W. Va., marked the largest snow accumulation in nine years.

The storm and the sub-zero cold wave which followed it were blamed for 11 deaths in Minnesota, 11 in Iowa, 10 in Nebraska, 8 in South Dakota, 2 in Michigan and 1 in Illinois. Storm-related plane crashes claimed 10 lives —7 in a crash in Virginia and 3 in a Kentucky crash.

In Minnesota, where about 100 schools remained closed by towering snow drifts Monday, officials said a search was under way for eight young persons believed to have been camping in Kanabec County when the worst blizzard in 35 years swirled over the state. One persons was listed missing in snow-socked South Dakota.

Teller's dad comes to rescue, puts bear hug on suspected bank robber

A bank teller's father at the Upland Savings and Loan Co. Monday afternoon sensing his daughter was in trouble, put a bear hug on a robbery suspect who had forced the woman to hand over $600, police reported.

Lynn Hollist, 54, of Lytle Creek, according to police, is credited with the quick capture of the suspect who was booked in West End Jail this morning on a federal bank robbery charge.

Police Officer Steve Shurtleff said that, Hollist's actions in the Monday incident were "highly commendable, considering the risk he took."

Shurtleff said that Hollist was in the savings and loan company to visit his daughter Mrs. Julie Ann Murphy, a teller, about 3 p.m.

Hollist talked to his daughter for a brief time until several customers came to the teller's window. Hollist watched as his daughter waited on the customers.

But, one of the customers passed a note to Mrs. Mruphy saying, "Keep cool. I've got a gun on you. Give me your 100's, 50's and 20's Quick."

Mrs. Murphy became frightened, and her father standing in the next teller's window sensed that she was in trouble, said Shurtleff.

Hollist watched his daughter hand the customer $600 in cash and went over to her booth. Hollist, a well-built 6-footer, suddenly put a bear hug on the customer. Mrs. Murphy tripped the robbery alarm, bringing police to the scene.

Hollist took the suspected robber to a chair in another part of the bank, and held him there until officers arrived

Shurtleff said the suspect, identified as Leonard Andrew Peltak, 51, of Idyllwild, after officers arrived told a bank officer, "Nothing's going right today. Police said they found a toy rubber revolver in the suspect's pocket, along with the cash.

Peltak was being held in the West End Jail this morning for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Motorist shoots two women hitchhike riders; one dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A motorist who talked quietly about "the beauties of the city" to two young woman hitchhikers stopped his car near a quiet beach to watch the ocean, then shot them both, one fatally.

"It was an execution," said homicide inspector Frank Falzon of the Monday slaying. "It was a senseless, motiveless killing."

The victims —both aged 20 and from Cincinnati —were Janet Rodgers, who died on the darkened beach, and Julia Kehling, who was hospitalized with bullet wounds in her neck and face.

Police were seeking a man about 24 years old with "chubby cheeks" dressed in Levis and Levi cap and driving a dark blue, four-door sedan.

From her hospital bed, Miss Kehling told officers she had taken a vacation from her job as a nursing technician at Children's Hospital in Cincinnati to accompany Miss Rodgers to California.

She said her friend was planning to enroll as a student at the prestigious San Francisco Art Institute.

Miss Kehling said the two had hitchhiked over the weekend to Venice, near Los Angeles, and were returning when they encountered their attacker.

She said she and her friend had gone to great lengths to "screen" their rides, trying to eliminate motorists who "looked suspicious or like they were on dope."

The man who picked them up at Half Moon Bay, south of the city, was gentle, soft-spoken, courteous and very friendly, Miss Kehling said.

Falzon said officers were "investigating the possibility" of a similarity to the so-called "Zebra" killings of 12 whites by black gunmen which culminated in the arrest of four persons last June.

"But we are not labeling it another 'Zebra' case right now," he said.

Pentagon okays YF16 for Air Force; pitch opens to sell plane to allies

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The U.S. government today made its formal bid to sell 350 General Dynamics YF16 jet fighters to a consortium of four of its European allies.

But tough competition from entries by France and Sweden, the multi-million dollar price tags and fears of soaring inflation complicated the picture.

Within hours of the Pentagon decision to make the YF16 the Air Force's new lightweight fighter, Air Force Assistant Secretary Frank Shrontz met officials from Belgium, Netherlands, Denmark and Norway to urge them to order the plane to replace their aging F104 Starfighters.

But the YF16 has stiff competition from the French Dassault Mirage F1 M53 and from the Swedish Saab Viggen. Both France and Sweden, like the United States, followed months of hard-sell campaigning with formal offers this week.

The Europeans' decision is expected in late winter or early spring. There have been increasing signs that the four nations might break their earlier agreement to buy the same plane and split their order between General Dynamics and Dassault.

The basis of all three companies bid was an offer to give the four countries such a large share of the manufacturing work on the planes that they would nearly recoup their total cost. General Dynamics, for instance, predicts the Europeans could offset 88 per cent of their cost if they pick the YF16, with Holland and Belgium earning back 95 to 100 per cent.

U.S. defense sources here refused to cite the exact cost which Shrontz offered the Europeans, but General Dynamics Vice President Otto Glasser told newsmen here that "I would expect it to be less" than the $4.5 million per plane which has been estimated.

European newspapers have reported fears recently among their governments that this $4.5 million figure might soar, through inflation or cost overruns, to $6 million or more — well above the Mirage estimate of $5.5 million.

Carlotta Herman Mellon

Pomona College prof named as aide to Brown

Mrs. Carlotta Herman Mellon, 28, assistant professor of history at Pomona College, has been named by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. as his appointments assistant.

Mrs. Mellon of Claremont, who was appointed to the college faculty on Sept. 1, is on a leave of absence.

At Pomona College, Mrs. Mellon has been teaching a course on "Sex Roles in Contemporary Society" along with "Feminism as a Force in American History" and "Images of Women in English and American History of the 20th Century."

She previously taught at Cal State Los Angeles and San Diego State. Her husband, Knox, is on the faculty at Immaculate Heart College.

As appointments assistant, Mrs. Mellon will screen potential appointees to government posts and make recommendations to Brown.

Mrs. Mellon is a Democrat and served during the transition from Ronald Reagan's administration to Brown's.

Also named to a high-level position in the new administration by Brown is life insurance company executive Leonard M. Grimes Jr., 51. He succeeds Lawrence Robinson as director of the housekeeping department of General Services.

A Democrat who also served in the transition period, Grimes is the second black appointed by the governor to direct a department while Mrs. Mellon is third woman chosen to a top-level position. Their salaries have not yet been determined.

Common-law wife held in fatal shooting of mate

A Pomona man was shot to death Monday during a domestic quarrel in his home and police booked his common-law wife on suspicion of murder.

The shooting occurred at noon at 2345 N. Mountain Ave. The victim was Robert Tilden Walker, 37, a construction worker. The suspect is George Ann Williams, 35, described by officers as a widow and Walker's common-law wife.

Walker was shot while standing in the kitchen. He was struck twice in the upper left chest by two bullets fired from a .22-caliber revolver — a weapon described by officers as a "Saturday Night Special."

He managed to walk into the den, where he collapsed on a couch.

When officers arrived, they ordered Mrs. Williams from the house and then entered and found Walker in the den. He was alive, but lived less than 30 minutes.

Police said that earlier Monday, Mrs. Williams had called and asked how she could obtain a complaint against Walker. Later she called and said he had been shot and she asked that officers be sent there.

Walker was rushed by ambulance to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, but died despite efforts of physicians there. The body was taken to the coroner's office in Los Angeles and an autopsy was planned today.

Post cites flaws in Gov. Brown's budget

- Underestimates welfare costs
- 'Tricky' device for college construction
- Increase double governor's figure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyist A. Alan Post says he believes that Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s proposed state budget has underestimated welfare costs.

The result of such a miscalculation could substantially reduce the size of the currently projected $574 million surplus for the coming fiscal year.

In his public discussion of the budget, the veteran legislative analyst told the Senate Finance Committee Monday he also was concerned about an "unusual and tricky device" proposed for financing construction of new college and university facilities.

Post said he believed Brown's proposed $300 million increase for welfare and Medi-Cal was "low."

"For example, the budget provides for only a 10 per cent increase," Post said about Medi-Cal expenditures.

He also questioned, in view of the troubled economy, the Brown administration's estimate that welfare rolls in the huge Aid to Families with Dependent Children category would drop by 14,000 persons during the year.

Post's "unusual and tricky device" comment to Brown's call for "loaning" money to higher education for construction and then submitting to voters a pair of bond issues to repay the state treasury.

"I don't like the approach of putting a pistol the heads of the voters," Post declared.

He explained that once the money was spent, voters effectively would have little choice except to approve the bond issues or leave the state with a bad debt.

"It's sort of like coming home and telling your wife you just bought a car, but you didn't pay any money for it — you just borrowed. But someday you're going to have to pay it back," he added.

Post also calculated that Brown's budget represented a 9.8 per cent increase over current state spending —even though Brown indicated the increase is only 4.3 per cent.

The reason for the figure is that the current budget total of about $10.8 billion includes large sums of unspent surpluses that will be carried over to Brown's administration.

Post also was critical of a lump-sum item in the proposal providing $95 million to cover both fringe benefit payments for state workers and general inflationary adjustments for Medi-Cal services.

"This is underfunded by any reasonable account," he told the committee. Post said fringe benefits alone could cost $51 million, and he said the two programs should not be financed together.

No prosecution witnesses

Sanity trial of bomber suspect goes to jury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Testimony in the sanity trial of alleged "alphabet bomber" Muharem Kurbegovic came to an abrupt end Monday when the prosecution announced it had no witnesses to counter the testimony of four psychiatrists that Kurbegovic is insane.

A jury of eight men and four women was expected to begin deliberations today, after final arguments.

They must decide whether Kurbegovic, 31, a Yugoslavian immigrant, is mentally capable of standing trial on 10 charges, including three murder counts for allegedly planting a bomb at the Los Angeles International Airport. The resulting blast Aug. 6 was the deadliest bombing of a U.S. civil air terminal, killing three, wounding 35 and wrecking much of the terminal.

Kurbegovic has refused to say a word since his arrest.

His public defender produced four psychiatrists who testified that Kurbegovic is mentally deranged to a severe degree. One psychiatrist described him as "a raving maniac ... a mad bomber."

The final witness, Dr. Franklin Drucker, admitted that he had "a strong bias" toward sending doubtful mental cases to trial, but that in Kurbegovic's case, he agrees with the other psychiatrists that the defendant is completely out of touch with reality.

Kurbegovic "suffers from some kind of paranoid psychosis" and has exhibited "craziness," the psychiatrist said.

All the psychiatrists testified that Kurbegovic does not even know what he is charged with, and is convinced he is on trial for masturbating in a public restroom.

The prosecution, in cross examination of the doctors, tried to establish that Kurbegovic was a "master of deceit. who pulled a slick con job" on the psychiatrists, feigning madness to escape a possible sentence to the gas chamber.

One psychiatrist countered that if Kurbegovic is pretending to be insane "he is the best at it I've ever seen."

Sirhan court appeal claims guard may have killed RFK

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Supreme Court today considered an appeal to reopen the investigation into the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, on the grounds that Kennedy may have been shot by a security guard, not Sirhan B. Sirhan.

Attorney Godfrey Isaac filed appeals with the court Monday, on behalf of Sirhan, now serving a life sentence for the 1968 assassination.

Isaac based his appeal on the controversial "second gun theory," citing reports and including affidavits from two experts indicating that more than one gun was fired in the melee that killed Kennedy and wounded five others.

The appeal argued that there are grounds to believe that Thane Eugene Cesar, then a part time employe of the Ace Security Guard Co., had fired his pistol during Sirhan's attack on Kennedy, and that Cesar's bullet may have hit Kennedy.

Cesar was not available for comment. Cesar, police and other witnesses have said in the past that only Sirhan fired any shots.

Isaac's petition maintained that Cesar's gun was never test fired, and such tests cannot be carried out now. The pistol was sold to a resident of Arkansas, and was subsequently stolen and never recovered, the appeal said.

The appeal said that Cesar was "a vocal supporter of George Wallace ... and was associated with other right wing views" and had expressed hostility to the liberal views held by Kennedy "a man he was supposedly guarding" when Kennedy was shot.

The petition was accompanied by affidavits from criminalist William W. Harper of Pasadena, Calif., and Herbert L. MacDonnell, director of the Laboratory of Forensic Science in Corning, N.Y.

They attested that there is evidence to show that more than one gun was fired, that the bullets recovered from Kennedy's body do not match all of those recovered from five persons wounded in the fray, and that there is evidence to show more shots were fired than the eight bullets held by Sirhan's pistol.

The petitions follow up the production of a movie, "The Second Gun," which referred to much of the same evidence, and a call by former New York Congressman Loward K. Allenstein for a new investigation.

The demand was turned down by District Attorney Joseph Busch, who noted that the "second gun" theory had already been the subject of three inquiries, none of which produced any evidence that anyone but Sirhan killed Kennedy. Dozens of witnesses saw Sirhan firing his revolver into Kennedy in a crowded pantry walkway of the Ambassador Hotel the night of the assassination.

Busch said Monday that Isaac's appeal put "the issue before the proper forum, instead of being a topic of a TV talk show or some politician's public hearing.

"If the court decides there is good cause to reopen the case and test the weapon (Sirhan used), I will fully cooperate," Busch said.

Plane highjack suspect overpowered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Laughlin Wright, 47, of Atlanta, is charged with hijacking an Eastern Airlines jet. His "weapon," the FBI said, was a brown bag full of shelled pecans.

The off-duty Philadelphia policeman who helped shove Wright into a bathroom Monday said he pounded on the door of the pilot's cabin, demanding to be flown to Puerto Rico. He was "waving around" the brown bag.

Taking no chances, the pilot of Eastern's Flight 140, from Atlanta to Philadelphia, landed the Boeing 727 at Dulles International Airport, saying he had to refuel for the flight to Puerto Rico. The 60 other passengers were evacuated. With five other police standing around with shotguns, officer James Baldwin opened the lavatory door and told the man to freeze.

He was sitting calmly on the toilet. The FBI said the brown bag contained shelled pecans. Other passengers said Wright was drunk.

John Warburton, a 20-year veteran of the Philadelphia police force who was returning from a trip to the Super Bowl with his family, was sitting in the first seat of the plane near the cockpit door. He said the black man came up and began banging on the door.

"He wanted to go in to see the pilot," Warburton said. "He said he wanted to go to San Juan." He said Wright demanded that "all the whites had to stay on board and the blacks could come along for the ride or get off the plane.

"He didn't appear to be armed. He had a brown bag he was waving around, but he wasn't making any threats."

January worst month for killings in Bay city district

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — January in the Police Department's Northern District between 7 p.m. and midnight on a Saturday is the most likely time for a San Francisco murder, Lt. Charles Ellis of the homicide squad has decided.

Ellis made a survey of 1974's 131 San Francisco killings Monday before concluding that January was the most dangerous month.

He found that the largest single group of victims were white male adults and that a killing was mostly likely to be "perpetrated by a black male adult."

Both victims and suspects, he discovered, were most often between 20 and 29 years of age.

Ellis found that the "weapon used was a .38 caliber revolver and the motive a trivial argument with alcohol a factor."

He also found that the murders most often were "committed inside a building, by a friend."

In explaining the "senseless arguments" that lead to killings, the lieutenant said one homicide "came in an argument over mustard put on a steak when a man asked for catsup."

Of the killings, 12 were by persons with records of mental illness, Ellis said.

Of the 131 killings 92 have been solved, he said.

State briefs

L.A. won't lose job funds--Bradley

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Tom Bradley said Monday that the city is not in danger of losing federal job program funds and that reports to the contrary are "misleading."

According to published reports officials at the U.S. Department of Labor said $21.1 million available to the city through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act would be cut off if hirings do not speed up.

Bradley said the unnamed official "clearly didn't know what was happening in Los Angeles" when he said the city was lagging behind in hirings.

He said the city is not behind and in fact is being used as a model for other communities in the state.

Farm workers win fight over short hoe

SAN FRANCISO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has held unanimously that the short-handled hoe may be barred from California's farmlands because it is unsafe

The court Monday ordered the Division of Industrial Safety to take a second look into complaints that the use of the hoe with a foot-long handle may be detrimental to the health of field workers.

The United Farm Workers Union, led by Cesar Chavez, has been engaged in a lengthy battle to outlaw the hoes. Chavez recently was hospitalized for several weeks with a back ailment which he said may have been the result of years of digging at crops with the short hoe.

Growers had argued that the hoe is not defectively manufactured and that a long-handled hoe is too cumbersome to do the job adequately.

Bill aims to repeal relatives' aid law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill to repeal former Gov. Ronald Reagan's controversial "responsible relatives" program has cleared its first committee hurdle in the Assembly.

The legislature (AB93) by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, was approved Monday by the Assembly Human Resources Committee on an 8-0 vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee. Current law requires adult children to contribute to the support of their parents receiving aged, blind or disabled welfare benefits.

Reagan considered the program a major part of his 1971 welfare reforms and vetoed similar repeal legislation passed in the past two sessions.

Lockyer told the committee the cost of collecting payments under the "responsible relatives" program exceeds the money collected.

Alcohol tax to pay rehabilitaion urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A half-cent per ounce increase in the tax on alcoholic beverages would be levied to finance alcoholism rehabilitation programs under legislation introduced Monday by Sen. Alan Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

The measure would generate an estimated $30 million to finance existing programs currently supported by $19 million from the general fund.

Gregorio said the tax would boost the price of a six-pack of beer by about two cents, a fifth of wine about one and one-half cents and a quart of 86 proof whiskey about seven cents.

Bullet proof vests wanted

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Downtown store owners want the city to provide them with bulletproof vests. They say they are spending so much of their time "playing Matt Dillon" they cannot run their businesses properly.

A special mayoral commission in Baltimore is thinking it over.

The commission is considering a suggestion from Charles Cotel, 56, who has run a dry cleaning business in Baltimore for 32 years. Cotel said he thought it up last year when the city announced it would provide downtown patrolmen with vests.

Cotel, owner of the BEA Sharp Cleaners, said he thinks storeowners should be given vests also because they spend so much of their time and money fending off thieves and robbers.

"We should be at least be given a break as far as the cost goes," he said. Referring to the fictionalized frontier marshal, Cotel said, "We're so busy playing Matt Dillon, we don't have time to run our businesses.

"We have to hire private guards and dogs, put up bars and bullet-proof glass around cash registers and install cameras," he added.

Margaret Bush Wilson, a St. Louis attorney specializing in real estate and housing, has become the first black woman ever to serve as NAACP chairman. She was introduced Monday at annual meeting in New York after 64-member board elected her.

Donated by Reagan backers but won't be used

Dispute arises over land for governor's mansion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Land donors could sue the state if construction is stopped on the $1.3 million governor's mansion in Carmichael, the legislature was warned today.

Legislative Counsel George Murphy said a letter accompanying the deed granting the choice 11-acre mansion site to the state indicates the land must be used for a new governor's residence.

But Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, author of a bill to stop construction of the mansion, questioned whether the state could be sued to return the property because the group which donated it has been dissolved.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has called the 12,000-square foot residence now under construction an unnecessary "Taj Mahal" and said he would study the feasibility of shutting down construction.

The property overlooking the American River was donated to the state in 1969 by Citizens for a Residence for California Governors, an organization chiefly of wealthy supporters of Ronald Reagan. The group reportedly dissolved in 1973.

Although the deed did not set forth any conditions on the gift, the accompanying letter expressed the group's intent that a mansion be "erected" on the site and the names of the contributors be included in a "time capsule" embedded in the concrete foundation.

"We think the intent of the parties was to make the grant conditional upon the use of the land for a governor's residence," the legislature's lawyer told Vasconcellos in a legal opinion.

The opinion said if the Vasconcellos bill (AB14) became law, this "would constitute evidence that the state is not going to comply with the conditions."

But it noted that litigation would be necessary to establish the fact as to whether the "state's conduct is such that it constitutes a failure to comply with the conditions of the conveyance."

The legislative counsel said the property would remain in the jurisdiction of the state until litigation "establishes that the state has not complied with the conditions and that title has been reverted."

The opinion, prepared by Deputy Legislative Coursel Carl N. Elder, noted that neither the deed nor the letter specified that the governor must reside in the mansion if it is built.

Thus, he said, "the fact that the governor did not actually reside at the residence would not breach any express condition." Brown time and again has declared he will not live in the structure and has made arrangements to live in an apartment near the Capitol.

. . . Brown preparing to use small apartment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The downtown apartment for bachelor Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has been equipped with second-hand furniture and former Gov. Ronald Reagan's eating utensils.

Brown, 36, who has vowed not to live in the new governor's mansion now under construction chose the top floor of a state-owned apartment building across the street from the Capitol for his Sacramento residence.

After a lobbyist was evicted, the two apartment units leased by Brown were cleaned and given "regular maintenance done for any new tenant," Press Secretary Bill Stall said Monday.

"He can move in anytime he wants to," Stall said, adding that the governor was "anxious to be able to move in fairly soon."

Brown immediately will occupy only one of the two apartment units. Each has two bedrooms, a kitchen and a living room totaling about 1,500 square feet.

Two twin beds, a couch, a stuffed chair, a coffee table, end tables and a small breakfast table with two chairs have been moved into the governor's apartment.

In addition, some eating and cooking utensils — "the everyday variety" —have been transferred from Reagan's executive residence, said Associate Press Secretary David Jensen.

He said the furniture had been used in other state-owned apartments and described it as "pretty average."

The apartments, located in a white brick 1932 vintage building, have been renting for $250 apiece. But Stall said a study has been under way into the possibility of raising the rent to reflect increased market value.

Congressional leaders react to Ford program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is pushing for a tax cut that would benefit all levels of wage earners —from the very rich to the very poor. But the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress has other ideas.

Influential congressional Democrats say any cut in taxes —such as Ford's proposed 12 per cent 1974 rebate up to a maximum of $1,000 —should be aimed only at those in the lower to middle income brackets.

House Speaker Carl Albert said today he believes "there will be a difference about whether there will be a ceiling, an income ceiling on taxpayers who will be eligible for the tax cut."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D- Wash., echoed Albert's sentiments by saying "there will be a tax cut ... but it will not be the tax cut that he (Ford) has in mind because it does not take care of the middle and low income groups."

Jackson predicted that Congress will enact legislation that would set a cutoff point of $15,000. The tax rebate, Jackson said, would begin to decline after that salary level is reached.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., incoming chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said the panel would begin work on a tax cut soon with an eye toward having a bill on the House floor in March. But he also said Ford's program would probably undergo sginificant alterations.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., said he supports Ford's plan for an immediate tax reduction, "but I want it to go to moderate and low income families." He also suggested that the rebate should be effective for two or three years and that a single repayment be made by the government in April, instead of in two installments as suggested by Ford.

On the GOP side, House Republican leader John Rhodes praised Ford's program and predicted quick congressional action on enacting a tax reduction.

"I think the plan is right for this time," Rhodes said. "The President has put a great deal of thought in on it and I think if anything will work in the near term, this will."

He predicted that the tax cut package could be enacted by April 12 at the latest.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said that both Congress and the President were "striving for the same thing —to provide more money for people, more jobs, and to conserve energy."

"All that's needed now is to put the country's interest first and work together," Scott said.

Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin called Ford's proposal to increase tariffs on oil imports "inflationary" but said it was the best option open to dealing with the energy crisis.

Oil tax hike controversial

How man on the street feels about Ford's plan

By United Press International

Rachel Shalom of Hollywood, an apartment manager, says a tax cut proposed by President Ford is a "good thing" but Ford's suggestion to allow gasoline prices to go up by about 7 cents a gallon will hurt Southern California.

Lee Murtha, 42, whose husband runs a trucking firm in a Philadelphia suburb, says she's just glad the President is doing something now instead of skiing.

And Jane Duerck of Cincinnati said Ford should cut the budget by laying off "some of those federal employes."

Most Americans responding to a UPI man-in-the-street random survey today were pleased that Ford made some strong proposals in his speech to the nation Monday night, even though they disagreed on many of the proposals themselves.

The unscientific survey indicated Ford's plan to hike oil taxes and thus increase gasoline prices was the most contoversial.

"The income tax proposal sounds good, but not taxing gasoline up 20 cents a gallon," said Jesse J. Baer, 56, of Cleveland. "There's so much of it now I don't think we need any more tax on gas.

"He has to do something. At least it's better than skiing," said Mrs. Murtha, 42, of Ridley Park, Pa. "It's the most I've heard out of him for a while."

Miss Shalom of Hollywaad said, "The tax cut is a good thing but the rise in gasoline prices will cancel it out.

"That's really going to hurt here in Southern California where we all really need our cars to get to work."

Mike Brink of Manhattan Beach, Calif., an insurance claims adjuster, was skeptical about the tax cut.

"It doesn't give you too much confidence when the guy comes out in one breath and says we need a 5 per cent tax surcharge, and then turns around four months later and says we need a 12 per cent tax rebate," he said.

Other comments:

Edith Freedman, 34, of Philadelphia: "Something is wrong when they raise oil prices in the winter and they are not going to give you a rebate until May."

Ed Hasenhour of Louisville, Ky., a restaurant owner: "Something has got to be done for the economy. I just wonder whether this will create more inflation."

Jane Duerck of Cincinnati: "The President is right when he said we should do something now about inflation. He should cut the budget by laying off some of those federal employes as well as stopping any more federal spending programs."

Thomas M. Burnett, 25, of Cleveland: "The tax cut is a good idea, but I think if all the loopholes for the rich and big business were closed it would have more meaning."

Robert A. Reese, 36, of Columbus, Ohio: "I'm for the tax cut. But I don't favor anything that will increase the price of gasoline."

Duane Carney, 41, of Secane, Pa., a computer systems manager: "I think he is taking steps in the right direction. He's trying something. At least it's a start."

The reaction of business, Wall Street, economists

By United Press International

Some business and Wall Street officials said they had anticipated many of the economic and energy proposals President Ford outlined to the nation Monday night.

One, economist Milton Friedman, said Ford didn't really propose a tax cut in his latest economic message —merely a "shift in the form of taxation." He said Ford's proposal is "a reasonable middle of the road course" for speeding an end to the recession, but added inflation probably would worsen as a result.

But others were excited by reports the President, in his State-of-the-Union address Wednesday, would call for a reduction to 42 per cent from 48 per cent in the permanent income tax on corporations.

"If this is true, it could be a bombshell," said Monte Gordon, vice president of Dreyfus Corp. "It might be the real sleeper in the whole program."

"If he (President Ford) does come through with the corporate tax rate cut, it could spark a strong stock market rally," Ralph Acampora, analyst for Harris, Upham, said.

"Much of what he said Monday night had been discounted, but Wall Street and big business would react vigorously if he said he would cut corporate taxes. We need something like that."

The automobile industry, which suffered in 1974 the worst nonstrike sales year since 1959, would benefit greatly from the President's proposal to grant it a five-year extension on implementing anti-pollution standards in return for better gas mileage.

"The President's program sounds good to me," Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., said. "It is aimed at main problem areas—recession, inflation, energy and unemployment —and if it is put into effect promptly, it should begin to pull us out of our present difficulties.

"The well being of millions of Americans is at stake here and I hope the administration and the congress will work together to get fast action."

Friedman said "The crucial need is for a real tax cut —that is a cut in total government spending. If federal government spending continues to rise, and the taxes that you and I have to pay go down, the difference is a form of taxation. This means that we shift our taxes away from the current tax structure and toward the inflation tax."

Robbery suspect nabbed after chase

A young Pomona man, suspected of being a service station robber, was captured early Monday afternoon after a high-speed chase on the San Bernardino Freeway.

The man, Oscar Ray Benson, 19, of 292 E. Olive St., was booked on suspicion of robbery; assault with intent to commit robbery; assault on a police officer, evading arrest, and reckless driving.

Police gave this account:

Benson was observed by an attendant loitering around the Jiffy Self Service gas station at 2849 N. Towne Ave. after an attempt a few minutes earlier had been made to rob the Jiffy station at 2094 S. Garey Ave.

He matched the description of the man who had attempted the robbery that morning and of the man who had successfully robbed the S. Garey Avenue station Oct. 3.

Officers arrived and attempted to stop Benson as he got into his car. But he sped away, heading south in Towne Avenue at 70 miles an hour.

Police in several cars pursued him onto the freeway and westbound at speeds to 90 miles an hour. They eventually succeeded in boxing in his car, a heavy sedan, and forcing it to a stop despite two of the police cars being struck several times as Benson swerved from lane to lane. He was taken into custody on Kellogg Hill.

An attempt to rob the station on S. Garey Avenue failed when the employe there ran from the building after being told the place was being robbed. The employe later called the station on N. Towne Avenue, describing the man who had attempted to rob the place.

Meanwhile, a Riverside couple arrested in Chino, and an Alta Loma man arrested near his home are facing arraignments on charges of burglary while two Los Angeles residents are accused of attempting to smuggle contraband into the California Youth Training School.

SPOTLIGHT ON CRIME

Monday West End Sheriff's deputies arrested Donald Edward McCutheon, 18, of 3541 La Grande Ave., Alta Loma on suspicion of burglary. Deputies said the arrest followed an investigation into the burglary of Billings Market in Alta Loma several weeks ago.

The Riverside couple were facing arraingment today in Chino Municipal Court after they were arrested by police following a Saturday night burglary of the Dave's Shell Station, 12510 Central Ave. in Chino.

Police said Frank Clinard, 26, and Laura Burton, 18, both of Riverside were arrested after they were seen inside the Shell station after closing hours.

Dave Moreno, owner of the service station said he received a call from a friend Saturday who told him that someone was inside his station. Moreno went to the station and found Miss Burton parked in a car outside. Moreno held the woman after he saw a man flee the station. Police arrived and took the woman into custody. A short time later Clinard was arrested by Officer Tommy Thompson about two blocks away.

Police said the suspects were looking for money in the station.

Youth Training School officers in Chino reported that two persons were arrested over the weekend attempting to smuggle contraband marijuana into the youth facility during visiting hours.

On Saturday Laranda Hallman, 20, of Los Angeles was arrested after officers found a quantity of marijuana inside of a cracker box he was going to give to an inmate. On Sunday, Deborah Burton, 18, also of Los Angeles was arrested after she allegedly tried to smuggle a quantity of marijuana into the facility in a cookie box.

In both cases the contraband was found during a routine package inspection made by guards.

Guru follower admits slaying

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Richard Douglas Briggs Jr. is a follower of the Indian mystic Guru Maharaj Ji, who claims five million disciples around the world and preaches love. Monday, Briggs walked into a police station and confessed he had shot three of the guru's female followers.

Police charged the former Florida State University student with murder and attempted murder.

Briggs, 23, of Miami, walked to police headquarters shortly after the 3 a.m. shootings Monday at the Divine Light Mission and surrendered, police reported.

Diane Ames Whitley, 22, an FSU student from Highlands Beach, died in a hospital six hours after the shooting. Dee Ann Burr Geiger, 22, and Lorraine Montgomery, 38, both from Tallahassee, were listed in serious condition after surgery.

Briggs said he had been living the past three months at the Divine Light Mission in Denver, Colo.

Witnesses said Briggs had visited the Tallahassee mission en route to Miami from Denver a week ago, but had to be asked to leave because "he was prone to ranting, raving, excess in everything."

Robert Helms, who said the gunfire woke him, added "I heard someone crying, 'Doug, Doug', so I got up and I went in. I found out later that he didn't have any more bullets. He had used up all his bullets," Helms added.

"He wasn't coming from love," Helms added.

John Anderson, who also woke up to the shots, said he saw Briggs go out the back door and he walked "like he was marching."

Police said Briggs got a butcher knife from the kitchen and pressed it against the stomach of another resident of the mission, Lucy Taylor, 18, when she told him, "Maharaj Ji wouldn't like what you're doing." He released her unharmed, left his automobile at the mission and walked two miles to the police station.

Two of the girls were shot while they slept on a bed beneath a picture of the peaceloving guru.

It's almost like summer in valley

Higher temperatures riding on the wings of light desert winds brought a patch of summer to the valley Monday, and residents were told to expect more of the same for the rest of the week.

The mercury rose to 83 degrees Monday afternoon, some 25 degrees above normal for the month, and the National Weather Service said it will probably top that today.

For the balance of the week, the weather is expected to remain mild and mostly sunny. Temperatures will range in the middle and upper 70s during the afternoons and the mid 40s at night.

Man who helped ailing wife he loved commit suicide fined, given probation

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Robert C. Waters says he loved his wife of 40 years and managed to talk her out of suicide each time she threatened it during three troubled years.

But the 65-year-old former Clarkston high school principal finally gave in to his ailing wife's desire to "die with dignity."

Two months ago, he switched on the ignition in the couple's car, helped his wife, Kathleen, 65, inside kissed her goodbye and closed the garage door.

For his "crime of love", Waters was sentenced Monday to 30 months probation and fined $3,750.

"I am well aware that there were those who said no charge should have been made," said Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beers.

Beer said as he pronounced sentence: "You did commit the crime of manslaughter."

A storm of letters flooded the county prosecutor's office after Waters was charged with manslaughter in the Nov. 13 death of his wife.

Waters pleaded no contest to the charge.

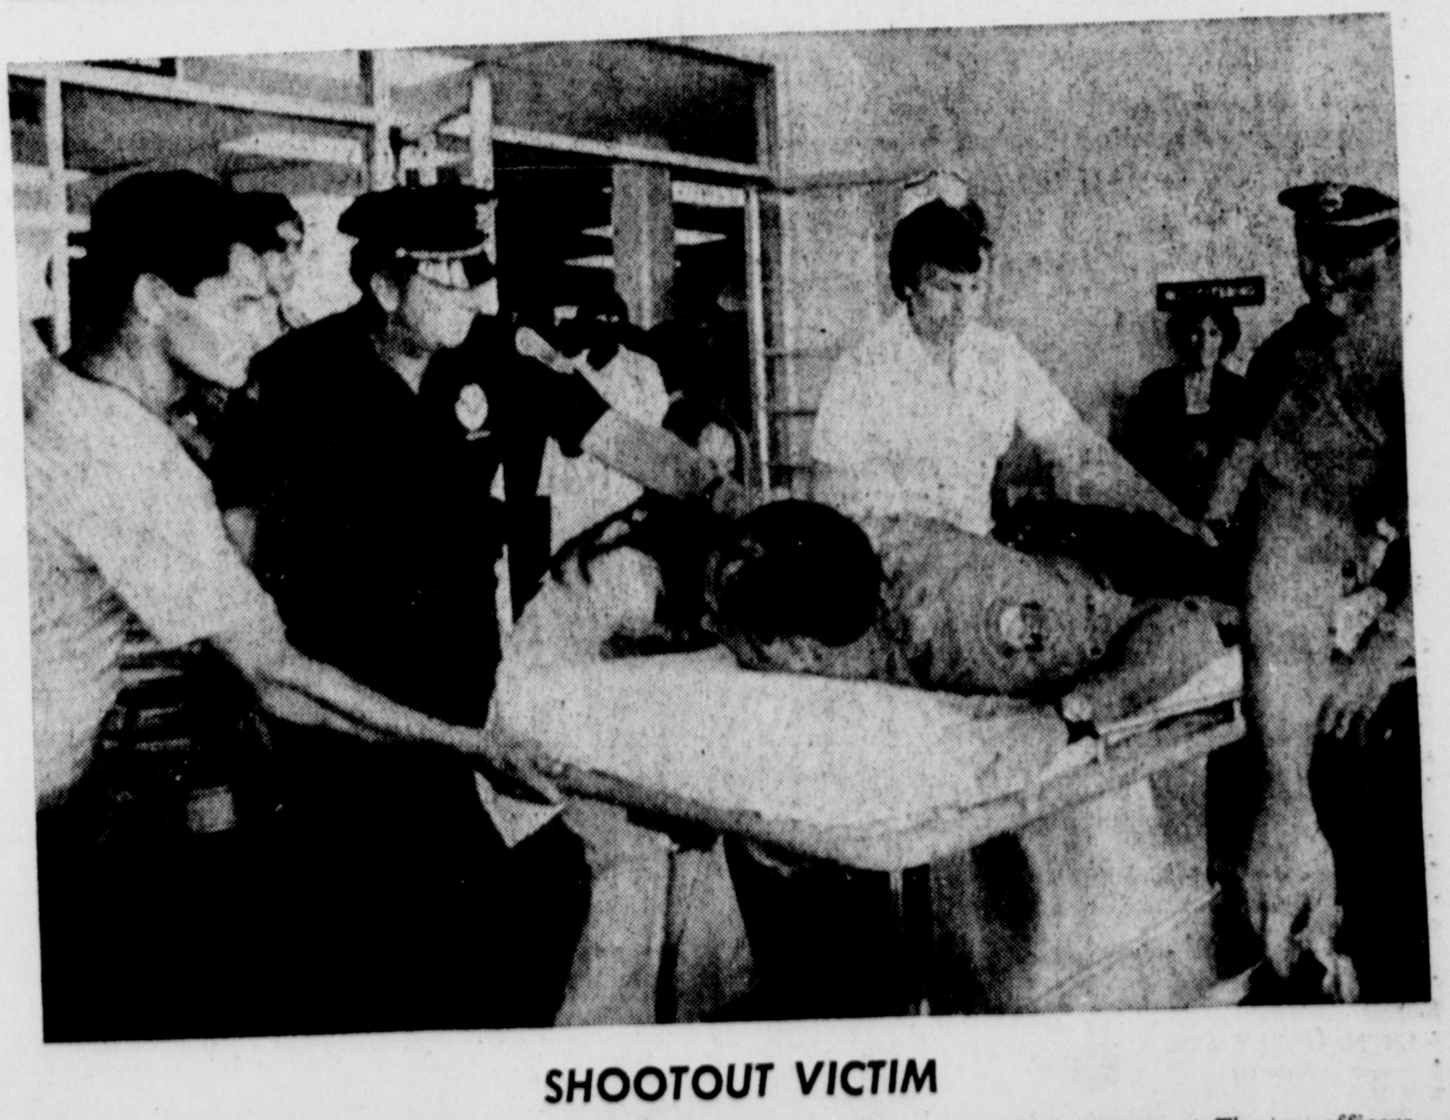
Waters told police his wife had been ill and possibly mentally disturbed for several years.

He said the reason he did not stop her from committing suicide was because "rather than die the way she feared, a cripple maybe and mentally affected, I would rather let her make her own choice and die with dignity."

Surrounded by family and friends, Waters appeared flushed when he heard the sentence, and then walked silently out of the courtroom.

He could have been sentenced to a maximum 15-year jail term and a $7,500 fine.

County Prosecutor L Brooks Patterson, who earlier said Mrs. Waters death was a "crime of love", said the sentence the court chose to assess "was fairly strong but made the point."



SHOOTOUT VICTIM

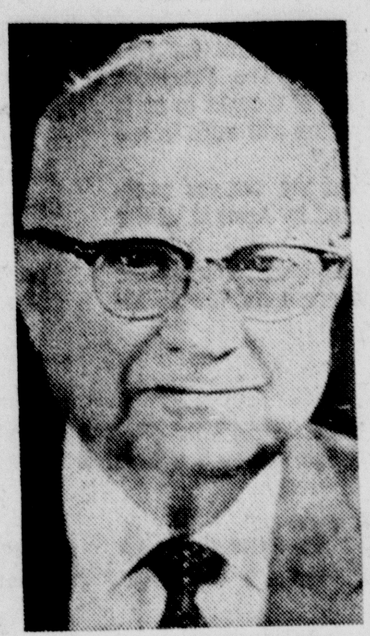
Founder of Webb School dies at 87



DR. THOMPSON WEBB

Dr. Thompson Webb, pioneer Southern California educator and founder of Webb School of Claremont, died in a Claremont convalescent home Monday after a long illness.

Dr. Webb was born Oct. 24, 1887, in Bell Buckle, Tenn., where his father Dr. William "Old Sawney" Webb was founder of the original Webb School, a college preparatory school for boys.

Thompson Webb graduated from his father's school and from the University of North Carolina, after which he moved to California to engage in farming in Coachella Valley. In 1921 he purchased the site for the second Webb School in the hills north of Claremont and opened with 14 boys. He served as headmaster and teacher and did much of the construction of the school's chapel by himself, shaping adobe bricks by hand.

The school was operated on Dr. Webb's convictions that teen-age boys develop best in an atmosphere of "plain living and high thinking," as he said. The school achieved national distinction for the large number of science scholarships and awards won by its graduates.

Dr. Webb retired in 1962 after 40 years as head of his school, but continued his active career in education. He was one of the organizers of the California Association of Independent Schools and of the California Educational Aid Foundation. He was a member of the boards of directors of Girls College School (now Claremont Collegiate), of Scripps College, and of Pilgrim Place in Claremont, serving as president of the corporation for 11 years.

Dr. Webb was awarded honorary degrees at several colleges, accepting two honorary doctor of laws degrees from Pomona College and Occidental College on the same day in 1962. He attended the ceremonies at Pomona College and then was flown in a helicopter, still wearing his cap and gown, to the Occidental College campus for the second ceremony.

Dr. Webb was a charter member and three-time president of the University Club of Claremont and honorary chairman of Boys Republic.

He is survived by four sons, Thompson Jr., head of the University of Wisconsin Press; Howell, headmaster of Foothill Country Day School, Claremont; William R., headmaster of Dunn School in Santa Ynez Valley, and John L., a teacher at Pomona High School; 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Private graveside services will be held in Oak Park Cemetery, Claremont. A memorial service will be held later at the Vivian Webb Chapel, named for Dr. Webb's wife who died in 1971.

Contributions can be made to the Thompson Webb Scholarship Fund, Webb School of California, 1175 W. Baseline Rd., Claremont 91711.

'MAMA MIA'—That's some bowl of spaghetti about to be devoured by Guinness world champ John Poole, right, and James Labarba, son of Italian vice consul, at Dallas-Ft. Worth airport hotel Monday.

Looking for challengers

Spaghetti eater still champ

DALLAS (UPI) — John T. Poole is the Muhammad Ali of spaghetti eaters.

"I'm the greatest spaghetti eater there is," oole said Monday night after adding another crown to his laurels. "I'm going looking for some more challengers. I'm going to Italy. They say they have some spaghetti eaters over there, but I haven't seen any. So far, I'm the greatest."

Poole, a 6-4 resident of Irving, Tex., who plans to take a belly dancer and his wife to Italy with him, is the world's champion spaghetti eater, a title recognized by the Guinness World Book of records. He won the title last September by downing 8.1 pounds of pasta in two hours and 42 minutes.

Monday nighrt Poole won the team title from James Labarba, son of the Italian Vice Consul of Texas and a team of Italian challengers. The competition, expected to be close, was about as one sided as Ali's fight with Cleveland "Big Cat" Williams. That fight lasted almost three rounds.

Poole, 31, teamed with Jim Haghes, a 32-year-old printer, and Bob Tucker, 32, a foreman at an aircraft manufacturing firm, to eat 10 pounds, 11½ ounces of spaghetti in the one hour time limit. The Italians managed only 3 pounds, 4½ ounces.

"I could have eaten more," said Poole, who downed 4½ pounds of his team's total. "But the spaghetti was cold. I feel I could go nine or 10 pounds if the conditions were right."

ALUMINUM RECLAMATION PROGRAM IS RAPIDLY EXPANDING

Foothill Beverage Company is rapidly expanding its aluminum can reclamation program, announced Jeff Lewis, vice-president, of the Pomona based firm.

"We have recently hired Terry Conner to head up the Environmental Division of our company to expand on the recycling of aluminum, which we have been involved with since 1970," he advised. "Mr. Conner will be working throughout the Pomona and San Gabriel Valleys, talking to schools, clubs, churches and other environmentally conscious groups."

"We're extremely happy to have Conner working with us on the reclamation program. Prior to coming to us he was the coordinator of the City of Pomona's successful "Ben Recycle-Ed" Newspaper Recovery Program, which is continuing city-wide."

Foothill Beverage Company, distributors of Anheuser-Busch products, pays 15 cents per pound for aluminum cans and then sends the cans to Inland Distributing Company where they are shredded for ultimate recycling. Last year alone the company purchased 328,112 pounds of aluminum, paying a total of $43,086.85 to the public.

Expansion of the recycling program will include taking a troupe of Valley Community Theatre actors to elementary schools to perform the original play "The Mad Experiments of Dr. Waste."

Conner said that he would be contacting the schools to schedule the plays, but would also appreciate it if the schools contacted him. All the plays will be performed Tuesdays and Thursdays. Clubs are also urged to contact him regarding how they can help to fund their own projects.

"Besides this play, we will also offer a number of films to be shown to clubs and organizations, as well as the schools," Conner stated.

Other programs offered to elementary schools include the placement of "Pitch In" barrels in every classroom of the school. The barrels are placed in schools on a six-week rotating basis, with collection twice during the program. The classroom at each school that collects the most cans wins a cake and ice cream party with the actors from the play making a special appearance to make the party complete. Some schools already in the program have been able to purchase extra school equipment from their aluminum can profits, according to Lewis. These barrels are also available on loan to clubs.

Along with the school and club prgrams, Foothill Beverage Company operates a reclamation center at 3525 Walnut, Pomona. The center is open Tuesday through Friday, noon to 3 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

To contact Conner call 627-6131 or (213) 966-1745.

STINE BROS. MOVING CO. REVIVES OLD MEMORIES

Clayton and Loren Stine, operators of the Stine Bros. Moving Co. recently purchased a new moving van and stirred up a pack of old memories.

It was 60 years ago, their father, R. A. Stine bought his first motor equipment. Previously, the firm, which has been moving household goods since 1906, used horse drawn wagons. The late R. A. Stine, who was born in Tustin in 1879, started his moving business at 9th and Thomas Streets when he was 27 years old.

Old records disclose the moving of Glen Martin's airplane bomber from railside to what is now the L.A. County Fairgrounds, to demonstrate bombing. He used oranges for bombs In the '30's "King Kong's Bust (made of rubber), and measuring 12 feet high and 8 feet wide was moved to the Fox Pomona Theater for a preview. It is recalled that Stine Moving Co. also installed the bell in the First Baptist Church of Pomona (in use today).

More recently, Stine Brothers spent one year testing the calibration of fuel trailers for America's first flight into space; moved a TV antenna to Mt. Wilson for set up of Channel 58; moved complicated computers to Pt. Magu and loaded on tracking ships for space flight.

Movie stars, attorneys, doctors, professors, housewives — you name it—have used the services of Stine Brothers. Their own vans move customers across the street or anywhere in the state. Now operated by the second generation, Stine's is one of the oldest family owned businesses in Pomona Valley.

THE MAMA ROSA'S PIZZA KITCHEN STORY

When Mama Rosa's pizza kitchen opened its doors on Jan. 11, 1958, the word was that it wouldn't make it. You just can't make homemade pizza and spaghetti and sell it at competitive price and stay in business. But like the humming bird, who can't fly, we didn't know we couldn't so we went ahead and did it.

Vince Figlioli, owner and manager of Mama Rosa's says with a proud grin that our success is due to the wonderful people of Pomona Valley. To express our appreciation we are celebrating our 16th birthday with a Pizza Sale topped off with a SUPERB bonus special Wed Night, Jan. 15th by offering a half gallon of Spaghetti for $1.79. At $1.79, who can feed a family of four today. It was hard to do in 1958, and its impossible today. Yet it will be possible Wed., Jan. 15 when Mama Rosa's will sell a half gallon of Spaghetti and rich meat sauce for $1.79 with a coupon clipped from this newspaper of Jan. 11.

Vince Figlioli, specializes in many different varieties of Pizza, and attributes his success to the fact that the main ingredients: the pizza dough, pizza and spaghetti sauce are made by him from old family recipes. Also that the cheese, meat and etc. used are the best money can buy.

Many of his customers have indeed been with him since he opened Mama Rosa's in 1958. It was a family venture that started with his mother Mrs. Rosa Figlioli and his wife Mrs. Mary Figlioli.

The kitchen is open seven days a week 4 PM to 11 PM Mon-through Thursday, 4 PM to 1 AM Friday and Saturday, and 4 PM to 10 PM on Sundays.

Figlioli emphasizes fast service. "A telephone call ahead will normally have an order ready within 20 minutes," he states.

According to the owner, the survival and constant growth can be directly traced to the support received from loyal customers over the 16 years. That's why the man who started with $50 and an idea 16 years ago says, "We are bringing back 1958 prices. It's our way of saying Thank You, Pomona Valley."

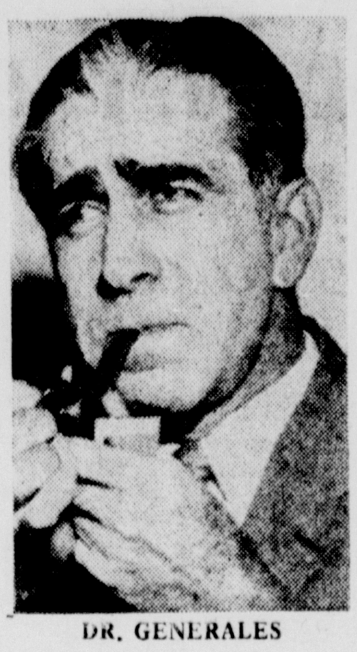
Tape record stolen

Doctor reveals CIA attempt to hire him



DR. GENERALES

NEW YORK (UPI) — A physician who specializes in "space medicine" says the Central Intelligence Agency unsuccessfully attempted to recruit him to spy on foreign doctors, the New York Daily News reported Monday.

Dr. Constantine D.J. Generales said when he refused to work for the CIA and told them he had taped the recruitment conversation, burglars broke into his office and stole all his tapes and his tape recorder, ignoring "many items of interest to ordinary burglars."

According to the News story, Generales said that beginning in April, 1972, he got several telephone calls from a woman who identified herself only as a government employe.

The paper reported that the woman wanted Generales to report on his contacts with foreign specialists at a meeting in Nice, France, that he was about to attend.

Finally, he said, the woman —who identified herself as Miss Sharyn L.W. Beers and was described by the News as "a sexy CIA agent" —showed up at his office on Manhattan's West Side and again asked him to spy on doctors from foreign countries.

The News reported that Generales secretly made a tape recording of the conversation.

"I told her: I haven't spied on anyone or anything in my 40 years in the space medicine field and I'm not about to do it now," Generales said.

Finally, fed up, Generales said he cancelled his trip to Nice, fearing he would be approached there or when he returned, despite his refusal to cooperate.

He was contacted again, the paper said, and this time he said he had a tape of his conversation with the woman and would complain if he was harassed further.

Generales said on Feb. 5, 1973, his office was broken into. However, nothing of value was taken but his tape recorder and all his tapes, including the one with the conversation with the woman, he said.

State history plan pushed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The leader of the state Senate today introduced legislation to appropriate $198,000 for an oral history project covering the governorships of Goodwin J. Knight and Edmund G. "Pat" Brown.

The measure by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, an historian himself, would finance the project for the California archives with $66,000 each year for three years.

It would extend the state oral history project now being completed covering the late governor and Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren, from 1925 to 1953. The latest project would span the years 1953 to 1966.

Sets would be deposited in research libraries and the state archieves.

Vegas visits up but profit down in '74

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Gamblers thronged Nevada's casinos as usual last year, but owners spent more money to get them there, and casino profits dropped 10 per cent.

During the first part of 1974 casino owners turned off their lights to save energy and wondered if there would be enough gasoline for tourists to get in and out of Nevada.

Yet with gambling, liquor, food, rooms and other business they took in $1.3 billion, up from $1.19 billion the previous year.

But profits fell by 10 per cent at casinos along the Las Vegas "strip," in Reno, at Lake Tahoe and in Nevada's rural communities.

James Noel, head of the economic research division of the State Gaming Commission, said that to ensure the tourist flow from California and other states, casinos plowed more money into promotion, free rooms, meals and drinks.

No-fault plan proposed for state's doctors

Medical malpractice insurance drying up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A state-sponsored, no-fault, assigned risk-type medical malpractice insurance system may be the only way to insure California's doctors because private companies are abandoning the field, the outgoing state insurance commissioner believes.

Gleeson L Payne said that he will propose to the Legislature a sweeping overhaul of the California malpractice insurance system before he leaves his appointive office Feb. 1.

He said the plan may be the only hope for doctors facing a dwindling market of insurance carriers.

A year ago, he said, 10 insurance companies were writing medical malpractice coverag and now there are only four.

"No company has made money on individual medical malpractice policies in the last 20 years," Payne said.

In the next few months, Payne predicted that more than 1,000 Los Angeles area physicians would be unable to renew their malpractice coverage, and the total may grow to 12,000 or more throughout the state by 1976.

The average premius is now $4,000 a year, with some as high as $35,000. Payne said average rates would have to climb to $6,000 to be realistic.

Under Payne's plan, all liability insurance companies in the state would be required to accept a portion of the medical malpractice insurance business as a condition of doing any other business in the state — similar to the automobile assigned risk insurance system.

He conceded that the cost of malpractice insurance would have to rise from current money-losing levels but it would solve the problem of availability of coverage.

The plan would also alter the way malpractice claims are handled, Payne said. The victim of improper medical treatment could make a claim against the pool of insurance carriers and receive payment according to a predetermined schedule of benefits.

"In malpractice now, too much money is going to the attorneys and to the courts," Payne said. "The amount actually getting to the injured party is minimal."

A reduction in the statute of limitations —now 20 years — would also lower the cost of malpractice insurance coverage, Payne said.

FTC experiment finds cheating in TV repairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) The Federal Trade Commission took broken TV sets to repair shops in three states and discovered consumers have 20 to 50 per cent chance of getting cheated on service and repairs.

Most of the cheating, the FTC study said, involved charges for unnecessary work.

The agency took new, portable black-and-white sets with burned out horizontal oscillating tubes to shops in New Orleans, San Francisco and Washington. The simple repair job involved only replacing one tube, but prices ranged from an average $20.76 in New Orleans and $16.72 in San Francisco to $16.65 in Washington.

"Ten of the 20 repair firms in Washington and 10 of the 20 repair firms in New Orleans claimed to have replaced parts or tubes which in reality did not need to be replaced," the report said. "Such fraud occurred four out of 20 times in the San Francisco tests."

However, the study concluded that most state laws to discourage cheating actually drove up repair costs because licensing regulations tended to reduce competition.

It said said California's spot check system, where a shop is always subject to inspection by the state agency, held down incidence of fraud in San Francisco.

The report recommended all state licensing laws be designed to permit easy inspections but not to restrict people from entering the business.

Don't sell CBS stock: hold on

By Roger Spear and David Sargent

Q — I have a loss of about $2,000 in 100 shares of CBS, Inc. (NYSE) bought late in 1972. Where do I go from here: take the loss, wait it out or double up? M.A.

A — Your last alternative would be my choice. This premier broadcaster and perennial leader in TV network ratings is headed for another banner year. Benefiting primarily from strong advertising sales, CBS-TV is leading the way in broadcast operations (about two-thirds of earnings), with the economic slowdown not yet having affected profits. Barring a serious recession, earnings should continue to rise next year as television is becoming the chief advertising medium and the last area to be cut by advertisers. Meanwhile, under new management, the company has disposed of certain marginal activities and strengthened its financial position over the past two years. Net in 1974 should approach $3.75 a share, up from last year's $3.27. Buy.

Q — What is your opinion on the advisability of purchasing INA Investment Securities for a conservative investor seeking gradual appreciation? N.S.

A — This closed-end bond fund, which is traded on the New York Stock Exchange, began in January, 1973. Initially, the fund emphasized short-term obligations, but switched into longer-term bonds during the second quarter of that year. This move proved to be premature as interest rates soared and bond values declined. As a consequence, INA's trading price fell from an initial $25 a share to $14. The shares have moved up about 15 per cent from this low and at current levels are selling at around a 12 per cent discount from net asset value.

In addition to a high 9.8 per cent yield, there are several factors that make the stock potentially attractive from a capital gains standpoint: the fund is permitted to have as much as 50 per cent of assets in convertible securities, to invest in private placements and to use leverage. Moreover, with 83 per cent of assets now in straight and convertible long-and medium-term bonds, INA should recover more of the ground lost as the trend to lower yields gathers momentum and penetrates further into the medium-to long-term market. Purchase is recommended.

Q — I have been advised to buy Sun Oil $2.25 preferred instead of the common. Why? Since I am interested in growth rather than income, I have never bought a preferred before. G.P.

A — This particular preferred stock is not the usual straight preferred; instead it is convertible, at the holder's option, into the common. Because the conversion premium is narrow (very close to parity) the preferred shares offer greater value for investors. The preferred, which is convertible on the basis of .9845 common for each preferred held, pays $2.25 annual per share in dividends. The common pays $1.00 plus 10 per cent in stock (the preferred is protected against dilution from stock dividends). At recent market quotations for both issues, the yield on the preferred is 6.1 per cent versus 2.7 on the common. Since the stocks are almost identical in price the additional yield makes the convertible more attractive. The preferred, which originated in the Sunray DX merger, is redeemable by the company at $59 in February 1977, down to $57 in 1978, etc.

Japan denies it will sell nuclear ship

TOKYO (UPI) — A leader of Japan's Atomic Energy Commission today denied recent newspaper reports that the government plans to sell its only nuclear-powered ship, built at a cost of more than $100 million.

Goro Inouye, acting chairman of the AEC, told a news conference the sale would "never happen. I don't know where such rumors came from. It's unthinkable and impossible."

The newspaper Mainichi reported Friday the government may soon be forced to sell the nuclear ship Mutsu because of the Japanese people's deep-rooted fear of radioactive contamination.

The Japanese-made reactor aboard the 8,300-ton Mutsu sprang a leak when the vessel was on her maiden test cruise in the north Pacific in September.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"There is still room for many equities to move upward before running into serious lines of resistance, but the risks from this point are not as attractive as they were when the industrials were below 600," says Merik & Co. The firm says the current rally could continue in an irregularly higher pattern for the next few weeks but the risks are growing. "New purchases should be made only on good dips, and all positions should be protected with stops," it cautions.

"We have experienced a typical, even if delayed, year-end recovery," says Thomson & McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeyer, "a recovery which has been somewhat more violent in the market as a whole than in the averages." The three Dow averages have been signficantly higher in January than at any point in December, the firm notes. This performance of the averages "traditionally is a good omen about the subsequent trend in any January, even if not an infallible indication," it adds.

Hospital bond sales slated in valley

B. C. Ziegler and Co., the nation's largest financier of hospitals, will underwrite a $4.5 million first mortgage bond issue for San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

The bonds will pay part of the cost of a $15 million expansion project currently underway at the hospital.

Ernest A. Wagner, board president, said local investors will be given an opportunity for a limited time to subscribe to two to four-year term bonds at 9 per cent interest, five-to seven-year term bonds at 9.35 per cent interest and 10-year term bonds at 9.85 per cent interest.

Wagner said interest would be paid to registered bondholders semi-annually on Jan. 1 and July 1 of each year.

If it is prefered, coupon bonds would be ordered and holders could collect interest at their banks. Denominations will be $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 or any multiple of these amounts.

To accommodate area investors and answer questions, Bruce Beaman of Ziegler's San Diego office, will be at the hospital through Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ordedrs will be taken on the bonds for payment no later than the last week in January, Wagner said.

This is a rare opportunity to purchase bonds of a local hospital and earn a good rate of interest on investible funds," said Wagner.

The issue was awarded a credit rating of A by fitch Investors Service, New York.

New interschool unit will meet in Pomona

Sue Van Camp
Ganesha Reporter

Pomona's Ganesha High School will host the first San Antonio League Council meeting Wednesday at the Education Center in Pomona from 9 a.m. to noon. The purpose of the council is to develop interschool relationships and exchange ideas.

Ray Thomas;' director of secondary education; will speak at the meeting. The agenda consists basically of planning, group discussions, and the election of council officers.

Each of the eight high schools in the San Antonio League will be participating in the council. Each school may bring four representatives. From Ganesha these representatives are Therold Adams for fine arts, Ron Rentz, boys athletics; Jasnese Whitney, rally groups and girls athletics, and Jim Lacey, student council.

These people were picked on their ability to represent the school. Phillip Kauble, Ganesha's activities director who will also attend the council, has hopes that "better relationships between league schools can be obtained."

The San Antonio League council will meet four times a year, and every school will have in turn hosting a meeting. Expenses of the student councils will be met by the league administrative council.

Claremont Baha'i unit sets Thursday lecture

The Baha'i Community of Claremont will observe the 26th anniversary of World Religion Day on Thursday with a program at 8 p.m. in McAlister Center of the Claremont Colleges.

The Baha'i Club of the Claremont Colleges has invited Dr. Amin Banani, professor of Islamic Studies at UCLA, to address the program.

Dr. Banani was born in Persia and attended Columbia and Stanford Universities where he obtained a doctorate in history. An author and editor, he has been on the faculties of Stanford University, Reed College and Harvard University.

The professor served as the representative of the Baha'i International Community to the United Nations Conferences of International Non-Governmental Organizations at New York and Geneva.

Sponsored by the United States Baha'i community, World Religion Day is intended to proclaim the oneness of all major religions and to emphasize the motivating force of religion in the establishment of peace. The event is celebrated in more than 5,000 communities throughout the country.

The public is invited to the lecture.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Cause of headaches

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: I've become active in a Women's Lib group in my neighborhood. It is a kind of consciousness-raising group, but also one that works for improvement for women in the community. A strange thing has happened to me since my involvement and awareness. I've had an increase in the number of bad headaches I get. I always had some trouble with headaches, but my husband and my children inform me that I seem to complain more frequently about this trouble. Believe me, the headaches may be all in my head, but they're very real — V.B.

Dear V.B.: The increase in headaches may be the result of the tension and anger you feel toward yourself and your life as you now see it. The anger may have increased because, through your recent activity, you've become aware of many problems you did not realize existed. I'm not a believer in the theory that what we don't know won't hurt us. I think, ignorance does harm eventually, and it is far better that you face some of these problems now, than when you are much older and perhaps less able to face them.

However, do not take it for granted that your headaches are due to psychological problems until you see a physician and make certain that there is no separate physical cause for your headaches. If your doctor feels these headaches are from tension then you can attempt to analyze the source of the tension. Most headaches represent the total personality in relation to its environment.

According to Dr. Arnold Friedman, physician-in-chief at the Montefiore Headache Unit, New York City, and chairman of the World Commission for the Study of Headaches, persons who get tension headaches are likely to be highly competitive, rigid perfectionists who approach problems intellectually rather than emotionally.

Tension headaches represent reaction to stress. Usually, the stress is emotional, but sometimes it can be from such things as bad posture. Migraine headaches are also usually triggered by emotional factors. Research has shown that about 10 per cent of headaches not classified as tension or migraine have as their underlying cause some physical disease or disorder.

People who suffer from tension headaches are apt to work too hard, relax too little and worry too much about gaining the approval of others. Dr. Friedman says the individual who suffers from tension headaches is apt to compulsively overload his time and talents and then overrespond to the load. As he points out, no matter what drug is used to treat the tension headache, there is no substitute for insight into human behavior. The best thing you can do, if your headaches are caused by tension, is to try to analyze where the tension is coming from and then to correct the situations that produce it.

The point is that you must begin to find productive outlets for the tension and anger you feel, and you must make certain that it is never misdirected toward your children or your husband. If, for instance, you feel that you have limited your interests to children and family in the past, take constructive steps to broaden your interests, either by taking special adult education courses, or by pursuing whatever hobbies youu may have buried in the past.

Don't overwater

Don't over-water holiday plants. Horticultural experts say that over-watering is a leading reason for premature fading of holiday gift plants. Touch the top soil of the plant with your thumb. If it feels dry, water plant. Use water at room temperature.

Keep from heat

Keep plants away from radiators and other heat sources. Porous clay containers help plants tolerate ordinary heat. They keep root structures 10 to 15 degrees cooler than nonporous containers.

South takes advantages

Four spades by North would be an ironclad contract, but North and South were not using transfer bids and South wound up as the spade declarer.

West opened the 10 of hearts. South could have insured his contract by playing dummy's king but instead played small. East played the deuce of hearts, whereupon West shifted to the 10 of clubs. Dummy's jack lost to East's king. East cashed the ace of hearts and then made the mistake of leading a trump.

"Chucked and possibly rechucked," murmured South. "I should have put up the king of hearts at trick one."

Then South won the spade; ruffed his last heart and ran off all his trumps.

The last trump lead squeezed West. He had to discard a club in order to retain his ace of diamonds. Now South discarded the last diamond from dummy and made the last three tricks with dummy's ace-queen and six of clubs.

Air traffic growth rate slows down

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Although the world's airlines carried more passengers and freight in 1974 than ever before, the growth rate for total traffic was the lowest since 1958, the International Civil Aviation Organization said today.

The airlines carried an estimated 505 million passengers a total of 399 billion passenger miles, representing a slightly less than 4 per cent increase over 1973, the lowest rise in the industry's history.

The agency said the average flight carred 76 passengers a journey of 800 miles at an average speed of 350 miles per hour.

Recession apparently has settled down for an extended stay in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the United States settled into the new year, so did the recession —apparently for an extended stay.

Unemployment rose to a 13-year high. Businessmen trimmed planned expansions. Real pay —earnings measured in buying power —declined.

There was a glimmer of price improvement. As recessions do, this recession was beginning to produce price cuts. Except for food, wholesale prices for unfinished goods were stabilizing.

The gyrations of the economy, told in day-to-day government reports, can show an overall pattern if they are pulled together. The current box score:

Unemployment:

The unemployment rate reached 7.1 per cent of a 92 million member civilian work force in December, the highest since May, 1961. The total number of unemployed rose by 560,000 in December, bringing the total of people unable to find work to 6.5 million.

Employment:

In a growing population, both unemployment and total employment had been rising. But the pattern broke in October, and in December total employment fell by 550,000. The number of employed civilians was 1.4 million below September's high mark of 86.5 million.

Pay:

Those employed were working less and earning less. The average weekly pay for factory workers fell to $181.43 in November from $182.86. Americans' personal income fell by $2.2 billion or two-tenths of 1 per cent in November, the first decline in 10 months.

Prices:

December figures aren't in yet, but November's increase in prices was at a lower rate than earlier in the year. Wholesale prices in November rose at an annual rate of 14.4 per cent, less than half of the 30 per cent annual rate for October.

Retail prices:

The consumer price index in November, lagging behind the wholesale trend, notched up at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent, below the 12.4 per cent rate recorded through October.

Output:

The recession was reflected in the fourth consecutive decline in industrial production in November. The fall in output of 2.3 per cent was one of the sharpest declines in 20 years. It put production 4.3 per cent below the level of a year earlier and at its lowest point since December 1972.

Housing:

For only the 10th time since World War II, builders started work on new housing units at an annual rate of less than 1 million a year in November. Housing starts fell to an annual rate of 990,000, lowest in eight years.

Autos:

Detroit's auto makers built 7.3 million cars in 1974 —24 per cent fewer than the record year of 1973. In December, output was 31 per cent below December, 1973. The industry's unemployment rate, with 300,000 layoffs, rose to over 20 per cent.

Consumer credit:

Reflecting unease, consumers bought less on credit. Outstanding borrowing by consumers fell in November by a seasonally adjusted $402 million, the first downturn since November, 1970.

Trade:

Wiping out October's surplus, the United States showed a trade deficit of $113 million in November. Despite exports running at an annual rate of $97.4 billion —38 per cent above the 1973 total —the 1974 deficit has reached $2.4 billion.

Soon in double digit figures

Industrial states feeling job pinch

By United Press International

Double digit inflation came first. Now, in one state and perhaps soon in two more, the jobless rate has to be calculated in two figures, too.

A UPI survey of major industrial states shows Michigan, with its heavy dependence on the auto industry, had an unemployment rate of 11.2 per cent in December, far above the national average of 7.1 per cent.

In California, 9 per cent of the work force was idled in December. In New Jersey, unemployment was 8.2 or 9.5 per cent in November, depending on whose statistics are used.

And officials in both those states are predicting rates of 10 per cent or better soon.

The hardest hit major city in the nation is Detroit, where the auto makers have been laying off workers in near record numbers to bring the jobless rate to 12.4 per cent.

The double digit unemployment figures dramatize the worsening recession, now considered by many experts a bigger threat to the economic health of the nation than rising costs. The rate of inflation has been above 10 per cent for several months now.

New Jersey's labor and industry commissioner, Joseph A. Hoffman, predicted the state's jobless rate will be 10 per cent when the December figures are completed later this month.

California's unemployment rate is expected to reach 10 per cent by mid-summer. Unemployment there is traditionally higher than the national average because the state has a higher proportion of young persons and women in its work force of 9.1 million and because of its many seasonal industries.

Pennsylvania's jobless rate of 7.4 per cent was slightly above the national average and Paul J. Smith, state labor secretary, said it appears January will bring "more of the same."

The recession hit those four states harder and faster than other industrial states, but there were growing signs that unemployment in New York and Ohio and was growing faster than the national average and soon would exceed it.

And for Michigan, California and New Jersey, there are even harder days ahead.

Director S. Martin Taylor of the Michigan Employment Security Commission said January unemployment would exceed even the record levels of December because of auto layoffs.

Ohio, the nation's second largest auto producing state, had an unemployment estimated at 6.7 per cent in December, up from 6.1 per cent in November, and the state's Bureau of Employment said it would increase in the months ahead.

New York's unemployment rate was 6.8 per cent in November but cutbacks in construction, textiles, printing and paper and electrical services growing. Buffalo, with an 8.8 per cent, was hit hard by auto, food processing and rubber company layoffs. New York City had a 7.4 per cent rate.

Texas and Illinois are two large states that thus far have escaped heavy job losses. Texas had a statewide rate of 4.8 per cent in November and Illinois, 5.4 per cent.

Alibi is Latin meaning "elsewhere," and has come to be the plea of having been somewhere else during a crime.

Four lions eat zoo director, assistant

FREJUS, France (UPI) — Four lions killed and ate the director of the Frejus Zoo and one of his assistants Sunday. The lions were then shot to death.

Zoo officials said the men usually drove into the zoo's lion park in an automobile but for some reason they walked into the enclosure Sunday. The lions suddenly attacked them.

The director of a nearby zoo rushed to the scene and fatally shot the lions as the animals were devouring the corpses.

French veterinarians condemned the killing of the animals as unjust. Some blamed the slain zoo director for the killings. They said Berne, a former hairdresser, "had no training or experience at being a zoo director."

Frejus is on the Riviera west of Nice.

First Montclair bus service opens with warm response

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

The first day of the new Montclair bus service Monday was met with enthusiasm by school children, housewives and senior citizens.

Oscar Esquivel, driver of the bus running from the Indian Hill Village at Holt and Mills avenues to points throughout Montclair, reported that more than 100 passengers boarded the Mercedes mini-bus.

"Twice I had a full load. The response was very favorable. They love it and expect to have the service for a long time," said Esquivel.

"It's up to them. If they want to take advantage of the service it will be here. And they seem to want to take advantage of it."

Eva Haag, a Montclair housewife who spent some free time shopping at the Indian Hill Village, said "We haven't had a bus out here and we need it. I'm glad it's here."

Mary Dourlain, also of Montclair, dubbed it among "the best things that ever happened to Montclair citizens."

Lucy, Rosemary and Greengo Campbell boarded the bus near their home at Orchard and Tudor streets for a jog to the shopping center. The youngsters summed the bus ride up as "neat."

"It rides real smooth," said Greengo. "We have a family bus that rides bumpy. This is pretty good."

Residents will ride the bus free of charge during the first month of operation. Thereafter, a 25 cent fare will be levied.

The bus continues running today and Wednesday only until 4:15 p.m.

But beginning Thursday, the schedule will swing into full operation with service beginning at 7:15 a.m. and the last run beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The 15-mile route includes service to the Village, Montclair City Hall complex, Montclair Plaza, Doctors Hospital and medical complex, Montclair High School, the county offices in Ontario and the Ontario Plaza at Mountain Avenue and Fourth Street.

$40,000 hospital fire regarded now as arson

A fire at Pomona's Casa Colina Hospital which destroyed a mobile therapy center adjacent to the hospital Jan. 3 is now believed to be a case of arson, fire officials said today.

Damage at first estimated at $30,000 has now been revised to reflect a loss of more than $40,000, according to Thomas Fee, inspector of the Pomona Fire Department.

The fire originally believed to have started from a cigarette destroyed the trailer which housed the therapy room for lower back ailments and expensive treatment equipment only recently purchased with federal funds, Fee said.

But a recreation of the circumstances under which the fire broke out showed that it could not have started accidentally, Fee said.

He said the fire apparently was started by someone at a portion of the trailer that had been damaged earlier when someone accidentally backed a car against it.

That accident had exposed a portion of the interior wall paneling. The fire was started from the outside at the spot where the paneling was exposed. The arsonist apparently stuffed paper into the crack and then lit it with a match, Fee said.

Fireman Dave Cowman suffered minor burns as the crews from four engines battled the blaze.

U.S. Justice Dept. unit to mediate city P.D. conflict

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council agreed Monday night to call upon a noninvestigative arm of the U.S. Department of Justice in attempting to solve current problems between the minority community and police.

After hearing an agency spokesman explain its function, the council agreed to permit the Community Relations Service (CRS) of the Department of Justice to begin operation in the city in a mediation role.

Angel Alderete, CRS mediator, told the council that his agency is in no way an investigative or fault-finding team. Its goal is to get the various disputing groups to communicate and reach some agreement that both sides can live with.

"We try to define what the two sides are saying, moving back and forth between them, and reach a point where they can get together and talk," said Alderete. "We try to promote some sense of justice."

The two sides in dispute are the Pomona Police Department and members of the minority community.

Four weeks ago a group called the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice appeared before the council to charge the police with harassment of minority and poor persons, and use of excessive force in making arrests in the minority neighborhoods.

At that time a spokesman for the Minority Coalition told the council that the group could not work or communicate effectively with Police Chief F. P. Wallick.

The group originally called for a full-scale investigation of its charges, but changed directions last week by asking that the CRS mediator be called in instead.

Alderete explained that the agency's first action will be to thoroughly assess the situation in Pomona and determine whether the situation justifies CRS intervention.

He assured the council that whatever reports result from the CRS operation in Pomona will be for internal use only and will not be reported publicly.

This was in response to council members' worry that the police might appear somehow "indicted" by the agency's presence in Pomona.

"I don't want anyone to have that impression," said Mayor Ray Lepire, "because I think the Pomona Police Department has been doing a very fine job."

In other business, the council waived portions of the city's normal hiring practices in anticipation of receiving about $200,000 in federal job funds during the next several weeks.

The funds are from the Comprehensive Training and Employment Act (CETA) Title VI and should provide about 25 jobs for Pomona residents

The jobs must be filled by Feb. 10, however, or the city will lose the funding. Because of the early deadline, the city's Personnel Department could not operate under the normal procedures for accepting applications, testing, interviewing and hiring.

City officials are still unsure exactly what amount of money will be received, how many jobs will be provided and what those jobs will be. When those determinations are made, the jobs will be publicly announced and advertised in the classified section of the Progress-Bulletin.

The council approved an expenditure of some $19,800 for the purchase of about three-fourths of one acre of vacant land on the west side of Temple Avenue. The land will be used as part of the site for city Fire Station No. 7 near Pacific State Hospital.

The council also approved the calling for bids on the construction of restrooms at Sharkie Park. The city estimates the cost of the project at near $30,000. Bids will be opened Feb. 4.

A request from the Pomona Redevelopment Co. for a 120-day extension on phase two of the Pomona Financial Center was approved by the council.

The request involves the northwest corner of Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard where the United California Bank and six-story office building was to be erected.

Due to rising construction and financing costs the project is being delayed and may be scaled down to a three story structure, the council was told.

Three valley residents injured in traffic crashes

A 7-year-old girl and a 73-year-old woman were injured in separate Ontario traffic accidents Monday afternoon, according to police.

Susan Kathleen Sorensen, 7, of 1636 S. Magnolia St., Ontario, was injured when she ran in front of a school bus and was struck by a car on Cypress Street and Francis Avenue. Susan was transported to Ontario Community Hospital for treatment of minor injuries and later released.

Police said the little girl was struck by a car driven by Kent Daniel Garcia, 20, of 1220 S. Bon View Ave. The car was traveling at a slow speed when the accident occurred, police said.

Helen Beatrice Green, 73, of 2717 Arrow Highway, Upland, was injured slightly when a car she was driving was struck from behind by another car on Mountain Avenue near Fourth Street. She was treated and released from Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The driver of the second car, Terry Ray Cornette, 23, of 8520 Monte Vista Ave., Alta Loma was also slightly injured but said he would see his own physician.

Personnel chief hired for schools

A man who served as a superintendent of schools for various districts for 16 years has been hired as administrator of personnel services for the Claremont Unified School District.

Dr. David H. Paynter succeeds Mrs. Mary Garrett, who resigned Dec. 31 for health reasons.

The school board in approving the hiring of Dr. Paynter identified the position of administrator of personnel services as a management position.

Paynter, who will be 54 in May, lives in Garden Grove with his wife, Beverly. They have two children, David, 25, and Mary Lou, 23.

Paynter is a member of the Orange County Board of Education, and during the past two years has served as an educational management consultant.

He was superintendent of the Garden Grove Unified School District from 1968-1973, and a part-time associate professor at Cal State Fullerton from 1969-1973.

He served as superintendent for the Simi Valley Unified School District from 1959 to 1968, except for 1965 when he had a one-year leave of absence and was director of Job Corps Conservations Centers, Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D.C. and established 70 centers in 36 states.

From 1958 to 1959 he was superintendent for the Elsinore Union High School District.

Seeking state funds

Supervisors to meet in Sacramento

SAN BERNARDINO (CNS) — At least four members of the Board of Supervisors will meet in Sacramento today and Wednesday with members of the county's legislative delegation to discuss 39 separate legislative proposals recommended for passage by county agencies and departments.

Supervisor Mrs. Nancy Smith is not expected to attend because she is still recovering from a siege of the flu which had her hospitalized several weeks ago.

The bulk of the proposals involve suggestions that would shift some of the county's financial burdens to the state.

One of the proposals, for instance, is for legislation which would provide more funding from the state for snow removal. This measure was proposed by the Public Works Agency which last year budgeted $200,000 for snow removal but spent $721,060.

The county was reimbursed by the state for only $107,540 of this total.

Another of the proposals is for reintroduction of a bill which if approved would save the county more than $1 million now payed to the state as the county's share of the Medi-Cal program.

The legislation, which is of importance state-wide, would change the formula for calculating shares in the program by basing it on increases and decreases in the population rather than on assessed valuation in the county.

A bill that would accomplish this was approved by the legislature last year, but was vetoed by Gov. Reagan.

Another recommendation would require the state to provide the funding for an amendment to the vehicle code which requires counties to conduct presentence investigations for all persons convicted on a second or subsequent charge of drunk driving.

This legislation went into effect only last summer but has already cost the county $56,742. Between July 1 and Nov. 26, 1974 the county spent $82,058 to support this program but the amount collected in fines came to only $25,742.

A related matter proposes legislation which would require specified prescription drugs to carry a warning against driving if the drugs are taken in combination with alcoholic beverages.

The county will also seek reimbursement for expenditures of funds totaling about $750,000 resulting from the investigation and trial of 14 persons who were involved in the escape of Ronald W. Beatty from the California Institution of Men in Chino.

All 14 defendants in the case were convicted of either first degree murder or harboring a fugitive from justice.

Last year the legislature approved a bill that would have provided reimbursement for the county but the bill was vetoed by the governor because the case did not have "statewide importance."

City offers $25 prize for symbol

Claremont would like suggestions for a symbol representing its part in America's bicentennial Celebration and the Claremont Bicentennial Committee is offering $25 for the winning suggestion.

The symbol chosen will be used on banners to fly during the bicentennial year, and on committee stationery.

The contest will be conducted until Feb. 15 and the winner will be announced Feb. 22.

Proposed symbols should be submitted to the City Clerk's Office at Claremont city hall. The contest is open to everyone, and simple sketches are satisfactory.

A professional artist will convert the winning sketch into a drawing suitable for reproduction.

Mrs. Roger Wheeler, chairman of the contest committee, announced the following rules:

—Each sketch should be on one side of an 8½ by 11-inch sheet of paper, with contestant's name, address and telephone number on the reverse side.

—The design should be black on white.

—A contestant may submit any number of designs, but each should be on a separate sheet.

—The symbol will be used with the words "Claremont Bicentennial Celebration." The words may be incorporated into the symbol, or may be used over, under, or beside it.

—The symbol should not include any part of the national bicentennial symbol.

The submitted symbol should be compatible with the national symbol because both may be used on the same page. The national symbol is a star within a design, and may be seen on the bicentennial flag flying daily at Claremont city hall.

2 school districts receive funds for bilingual classes

Pomona and Chaffey school districts have been approved for additional federal funds to expand bilingual programs in their districts.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., said Pomona will receive $150,000 and Chaffey, $94,598.

C. Joseph Barfield, director of special projects in Pomona, said the money will be used to offer six preschool classes, for 20 pupils each, at six elementary schools.

Barfield said these classes will differ from Head Start and state preschool offerings in that they will not be limited to children from low-income families.

He said one-third of the children enrolled will not be Spanish speaking.

Schools where classes will be taught are yet to be determined. Information will be released within a short period to let parents know when and where to register their children, Barfield said.

Ed Lopez, director of intercultural education at Chaffey, said that district's grant will be used to develop programs at Ontario and Alta Loma high schools to help Spanish surnamed students meet graduation requirements.

Lopez said they are in the process of recruiting people to staff the programs. In their next application, they will seek funds to expand the program to two more high schools, Lopez said.

Lloyd said both grants, awarded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will help Spanish-speaking youngsters into the mainstream of an English-speaking society.

New MSAC trustee to take office in first night session

Charles D. Hall of Diamond Bar, newly elected member of the board of directors of Mt. San Antonio College, will be sworn into office at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The occasion will also mark the first time the MSAC board has ever held a board meeting in the evening.

Hall was elected to the board last Tuesday for a term that runs through March 31. He and 18 other candidates are running March 4 for four-year terms that begin April 1.

No decision has been made as to who will administer the oath of office to Hall. The law permits any of the board members to do so.

The meeting time was changed at Hall's request from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. to learn whether an evening session will bring a larger group of spectators to the board meeting. Hall contended that morning and afternoon meetings prevented those people who worked from attending the meetings.

The board agreed to move the time to the evening for the January meeting, and will consider further implications of the move at its Thursday session.

The trustees also are scheduled to act Thursday on the request of MSAC employes for a 6 per cent interim raise, effective this month.

The employes received a 9 per cent raise last July, but they now contend that the cost of living has gone higher than anticipated and their purchasing power has fallen behind that index.

3rd time around for Arab power

In administering a profound shock to the complacent West by virtue of its control of the lion's share of the world's store of oil, the Moslem world is repeating something it did twice before in history.

The first time occurred immediately after the message of Mohammed captured pagan Araby, recalls a thoughtful article in a recent Business Bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Either because of spiritual exhilaration or some inexplicable change in their genes, the formerly placid Arabs embarked on a series of successful military adventures. In a comparatively short time, they subdued most of the Mediterranean littoral, overran the Iberian Peninsula and scaled the Pyrennees with the aim of making what is now France subject to Islam.

The decisive Battle of Tours in A.D. 732 turned the tide, aroused the West out of the sleep of the Dark Ages and ushered in the short-lived empire of Charlemagne.

Some seven centuries later, while the Florentines and others were abosorbed in the cultural achievements of the Renaissance, the Turks captured Christian Constantinople. The blockade of the Bosporus cut off the flow of spices from the Far East, an indispensable product in preserving meat and making it edible for aristocratic taste.

Italy and France were virtually helpless, but Portugal and Spain, being maritime powers, moved to overcome the challenge. The former courageously developed a sea route through unknown waters around the Cape of Good Hope and across the Indian Ocean, unmolested by the land-bound Moslems. The return cargoes yielded a handsome reward for the entrepreneurs who had taken the risks.

The Spaniards chose a more imaginative and much more hazardous "Project Independence." The result was the discovery of the Western Hemisphere. Despite the rudimentary means of communication and transportation, untold riches began to flow from the New World to the Old.

The third "invasion" by the Moslems has been accomplished without their lifting a single sword, and it is to be hoped that the stricture in the "spice" lines will be overcome without the bloodshed that was the case in the two earlier conquests.

For a time it appeared that the major oil-consuming nations would become victims of a divide-and-be-conquered strategy of self-defense. There is now some promise that a formal or informal OPCC (Organization of Petroleum Consuming Countries) will come into being to challenge the OPEC, the oil exporters. Its first objective is to negotiate a common formula for sharing petroleum supplies equitably.

For the short run, conservation of energy is most urgent, but the process has hardly begun. Meanwhile, we modern "Portuguese" have an Alaskan pipeline under construction. The northern Europeans are plumbing the depths of the North Sea.

All these and other efforts to extract energy out of the earth's outer shell will create new employment, but a rise in living standards cannot occur until such efforts are beyond the developmental stage.

The sudden re-emergence of Arab power has not only disrupted industrial activity among oil-consuming nations. The proliferation of petrodollars threatens to cripple existing insitutions and force a drastic restructuring of the international monetary system.

"Constructive and ingenious measures and machinery," says the bulletin, "must be evolved to stave off world-wide distress of some duration and severity."

He's sour on sweets

The high cost of sugar could be a blessing in disguise to consumers' health, if not their pocketbooks.

Nutritionally, we don't need sugar in our diets, says George Briggs, professor of nutrition at the University of California at Berkeley.

While sucrose accounts for 17 per cent of the total calories in the nation's food supply, these are "empty" calories that provide only energy since sugar itself contains no nutrients such as protein, fats, minerals or vitamins.

Moreover, too much sugar may be indirectly linked to cardiovascular diseases, obesity and malnutrition, and is directly related to tooth decay, says the professor.

Anyone who thinks that a sugarless day will keep the dentist away may be doomed to disappointment, however, judging by a report from another quarter.

William H. Bowen of the National Institute of Dental Research conducted extensive dietary experiments on monkeys, which are good models for dental research because they thrive on a human diet and harbor many of the same bacteria found in people.

His findings showed that bacteria deposits developed on teeth regardless of the absence of sucrose or simple sugars. ..In short, he says, substitutes for table sugar may be fine for weight control and prescribed sugarless diets, but they won't cut down on tooth decay.

Well, you picks your professor and you takes your chances.

Expanding U.S. concept of capitalism

In a recent interview with Business Week magazine Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said the day may come when the United States would have to go to war with the Arab countries to obtain oil.

In Thursday's Progress-Bull article appeared on the front p porting that the United States ha d eight hundred million dollars worth of military jetfighters to the Saudi Arabian government.

I don't see why Kissinger and his cohorts don't expand this new concept of capitalism.

We could sell nuclear arms to the Soviet Union and to communist China. While we are at it we could sell a couple of nuclear submarines to Cuba.

After all, as long as companies like Lockheed, McDonald Douglas and General Dynamics are making profits what worries could the average American have?—Gary Meese, Montclair.

Can't blame politicians

The good doctor (of divinity) who proposed we could cure unemployment by reducing the workweek to thirty hours (with no decrease in pay), is leading us astray. Employers would be forced into raising prices, creating further inflation. Wages would then presumably be raised, in a never ending cycle.

Until free enterprise is relieved of its many bleeding ulcers, we cannot prosper. Production dropped 4 per cent in 1974. Economists (perhaps the good doctor's freshman students) are predicting an upturn in 1975. If so, it will be at the expense of further inflation. This is a form of hari-kari used repeatedly through history. It has never led to prosperity.

If we wish to preserve the few freedoms we have left, we will have to learn to govern ourselves more intelligently. We can hardly blame our politicians, we pick them.—Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Economy is threatened

Our American economy is threatened because the Marxist Federal Reserve Board is printing more and more unbacked "paper." This increased volume of money in circulation, which is the dictionary definition of "inflation," is bound to bring a rise in prices.

Mr. Ford's maniacal "economics" which calls for a "tax but," would put even more money in circulation, creating inflation faster. The sole cure for our sick economy is LESS GOVERNMENT.—F. F. Scudder, Claremont.

Old guard mismanages economy

WASHINGTON — It isn't enough for President Ford to offer new economic solutions. He should also change the economic guard. For the old guard has badly mismanaged the economy.

Their failure can be measured in human misery. They are responsible for throwing hundreds of thousands out of work, causing thousands of businessmen to go broke, pushing the poor deeper into poverty and reducing the purchasing power of all Americans.

There is no longer any doubt that the Federal Reserve Board restrained the money supply too much. This caused interest rates to soar until businessmen could no longer afford to borrow capital. They were forced to cut back production, lay off workers and curtail expansion.

Of course, the President doesn't control the Fed. But his economic managers not only worked closely with the Fed but completely misread the economic signs.

They got him all fired up against inflation when his biggest worry should have been recession. On October 15, he declared war on inflation with this ringing appeal to the American people: "Postpone unnecessary borrowing. Wait for interest rates to come down. Save as much as you can."

Thirty days later, the President's economic advisers began to panic over the economic slump and they got him to issue a new clarion call, advocating exactly the opposite.

"Somehow the word has gone out that the best way to defeat inflation and revitalize the economy is to curtail spending," he said, not mentioning that he was the one who had put out the word. "Nothing," he declared, "could be further from the truth."

Only last October, President Ford was calling for a five per cent tax increase. Within 60 days, he began to change his tune. Now he is talking about a multibillion-dollar tax cut to restore consumer purchasing power.

Yet the people who misled the President and brought hard times to millions of Americans are still running the economy.

Footnote: Ironically, the reformers on Capitol Hill are turning against the man who was the first to blow the whistle on the Federal Reserve Board and to challenge the economic thinking in the White House.

They are seeking to strip the aged but alert Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., of his House Banking chairmanship. Several reformers have formed a strange alliance with the bankers' bloc to oust the old warhorse who has always fought the big banks.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Gama Goat, a bouncing new Army field truck, may not be as rugged as its namesake but it is as stubborn to control. The $200 million project has been plagued with problems, but the procurement just keeps going on and on.

Now a secret General Accounting Office report indicates that the Army brass lied to Congress when they claimed the truck's defects had been corrected.

The brass assured the House Armed Services Committee in 1972 that the problems had been solved and the truck was running fine. Taking them at their word, Congress permitted them to go ahead with the procurement.

But the GAO report, which we have obtained from locked files, alleges that the Gama Goat isn't doing well at all. "Almost all of the Army personnel expressed dissatisfaction with the vehicle," delcares the secret report. The users felt "the vehicle lacks durability, . . . was difficult and exhausting to drive, . . . and that it was oversophisticated and a piece of junk."

The GAO also questioned the mobility of the truck, which is supposed to deliver supplies to the front lines. It should be able, therefore, to roll over rough terrain and to cross streams like a barge.

Yet drivers claimed, according to the GAO, that the truck was difficult to steer up hills, "handles poorly in light snow, . . . slips and slides in shallow mud . . . and cannot cross tundra."

The drivers also complained that the truck has a tendency to pop out of gear. Unless they are careful while shifting, "the axle or propeller shaft universal joints will break."

As for the truck's swimming capability, the report charges that the Gama Goat can enter the water only from gently sloped banks with firm soil. "Speed of entry is restricted to a maximum of two MPH and . . . cannot be made into a . . . current in excess of four MPH or when the wind blows in excess of 20 MPH."

Bad women newest menace

Women in crime are taking unfair advantage of men victims! How about that! Naughty girls knock on any hotel room door. If a man opens the door, the girl threatens to scream rape if the man does not part with a $20 bill.

Usually, rather than chance seeing his name in the morning paper, he pays. Before you yield to the bright lights of the big cities, son, let me tell you about the dark corners.

One in every 10 serious crimes is committed by a woman. One in every six persons arrested is a woman. Women do not yet enjoy equal opportunity in crime but they're gaining.

In the past five years the number of women arrested for major crimes (murder, armed robbery, car theft, and so forth) increased 52 per cent.

The rise for men during the same period was 8 per cent. Women embezzlers—up 136 per cent. Women counterfeiters—up 99 per cent. Women drunk drivers—up 211 per cent. Women arrested for misusing drugs—up more than 1,000 per cent

And the big increase in female crime is among girls under 18.

Young girls are now frequent participants in assault, robbery, murder—even rape. Currently, two of the FBI's most wanted fugitives are women.

The increase in female crime, as in all crime, is traceable mostly to the increase in use of drugs. You can't support a $100-a-day heroin habit otherwise.

There is the further factor that "libeartion" of women has broken down ancient social inhibitions. Anthropologist Margaret Mead warns that women, as criminals, may be more ruthless and savage than men.

"Women have no built-in chivalry," she says. "They will be more fierce than males, less amenable to rules." Last year, a New York woman, Erma Mitchell, 19, became the first female in the United States ever to be convicted of rape. She's doing six years.

Gwynne Sizer of the United States Bureau of Prisons observes, "Women are just beginning to find out what they can do."

District of Columbia police are seeking a man and woman who specialize in robbing all-night food stores. She pulls the heist; he drives the getaway car.

Arrests of women on weapons charges have increased 262 per cent in five years; for men 156 per cent.

A woman on narcotics used to finance her habit with prostitution. Today she is tmore likely to lure the Idaho businessman into a trick apartment building, then pull a gun on him and force him into a stairwell, take his wallet, throw his clothes in the trash chute and leave him there.

Or the hitchhiking girl may leave the male motorist standing naked beside the highway. Well, fellows, it is their turn.

J. K. (DOC) PEIRSOL

Just in jest

As one who has been paying four or five times as much lately for the sugar you consume, there is this consoling thought. Because of all the extra money you shelled out, the sugar companies have been making fabulous profits—and at least one sugar company decided to share those profits with several thousand of its employes. As a result the employes received a Christmas bonus which averaged out at about $1,000 each. —In trying times like these doesn't it give you a great big glow of happiness to learn that your personal contributions to inflated sugar prices were instrumental in making a lot of employed workers' Christmases $1,000 happier?

RAY CROMLEY

Investment is the answer

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The economists are happy. Despite their talk of fine tuning, they've never had a clear fix on how to handle infation. Talk with four economists will net you five theories.

But they do know what do do about a recession: Spend. And keep on spending until we are out of the slump.

Here they are in agreement.

But they're wrong. There's a major bug in that theory in the 1975 economic bogdown. Government deficit spending, more money in our pockets from tax breaks, added unemployment benefits and public service jobs will not solve our problem. Without increased production of basics, these actions will merely drive prices skyward. We'll compete more heavily for what's available. Which will increase inflation and put us back to where we are now.

For the new buying almost certainly will be sensibly centered in the day-to-day essentials — which are even now soaking up our funds. The unemployed, given extended payments or public-service jobs, and the employed, given a tax break, will not rush out to buy an expensive new house or car. They'll want to see daylight first.

Our troubles have a deeper bass. Basic production capacity over the years has not increased sufficiently to employ all U.S. workers, or to supply the increase in demand as more Americans moved into the middle class. This insufficiency would exist even if the economy were surging, which it certainly is not doing today.

There are many reasons for this failure to build production capacity and this slower-than-desirable increase in productivity. In part it has been because of a lack of confidence in our future economic growth, in part because of senseless government regulation, in part because bigness has created complacency and in part because the new breed of big managers are bureaucrats who are unwilling to take chances.

There has been a hefty shift of investment in new production overseas by American companies, stimulated by a variety of tax incentives. That is, for years we have exported jobs and have simultaneously failed to create them in sufficient numbers here at home. Without this continually expanded and upgraded capacity, an increase in demand cannot possibly be matched by the requisite increase in the output of essentials.

For curing a recession, or an inflation, there is no substitute for increasing investment in basic industry and for stimulating productivity and new products in order to put more men and women into production.

Ideas are not in short supply. Inventive scientists and engineers are coming up with more improvements and feasible new concepts than ever before in history. But there's a shortage of risk capital. There's a reluctance to take chances.

A good deal more of our thinking, therefore, must go into eradicating barriers.

Only in this way will we be able to transform more of our consumers into producers, convert more of our unemployed, underemployed and "unemployables" into workers.

Men and women out of work through no fault of their own need assistance. And we all deserve a tax break. But we should not kid ourselves into thinking such patchwork will end the recession — though, like all recessions, it will probably run out of steam eventually regardless of whatever mistakes this administration makes.

Heartline: I am retired from Civil Service and I am also entitled to Social Security. Can I collect both? — R.S.

Answer: Yes, if you are entitled to both, you can collect both.

Heartline: I am 59 years old and on disability Social Security from my work. If at age 60 I transfer to my widow's benefits, would I lose Medicare? — E.S.

Answer: No.

Heartline: I am going to retire at age 65 next January. I have two deceased husbands. Which one can I draw Social Security from? I was married to each one at the time of his death. — F.E.

Answer: You would be able to draw from whichever husband had the higher benefit.

Heartline: What type of annuity increase will a retired railroad employee get in the future?

Answer: There are two types of annuity increases for retirees — one for each tier.

The tier I part of your annuity will be increased automatically under cost-of-living provisions. At present it appears the first such tier I increase will be effective in June 1975.

Starting in June 1977, the tier II part of your annuity is also subject to a separate cost-of-living increase, but it will be based on only 32.5 per cent of the preceding year's increase in the Consumer Price Index.

Heartline: I am 73 years old and my wife is 69. I understand we can make up to $4,300 and not have to file an income tax return. Is that on the gross income or the net income? — G.A.

Answer: Married persons over 65, living together and planning to file a joint return, need not file a return if their combined gross income is less than $4,300. Social Security benefits received are not taxable and therefore are not included in gross income.

You've got 11 minutes to convince your wife

Sir, never devote more than 11 minutes to try to convince your wife of anything. If average, that's how long she'll pay attention, no longer. If you haven't made your point by then, give up. So suggests a student of the mind who has made a study of attention spans.

THE LABOR of that woman who has her first baby at age 35 is typically about four hours longer than it might have been if she had had her first baby at age 20.

Calories

It's highly likely you change your sleeping position between 30 and 40 times a night. Question arises if this causes you to burn up energy in your sleep. Some. But not much. You can expect to use .043 calories per pound during an eight-hour sleep. Multiply that figure by your weight to get your calorie consumption while snoozing. At 190 pounds, I'm supposed to expend only 8.17 calories. That's not enough. Going to have to get more sleep.

Q. "HOW LONG does it take a skunk to manufacture an ounce of that foul odor?"

A. Figure three weeks.

Joe Dun

When Henry VII was on the throne of old England, there lived in that place called Lincoln a bailiff named Joe Dun. He became widely known as an expert at collecting bad debts. At first, creditors confronted with a slow-pay customer said, "Send Dun after him." Later, they just said. "Dun him." Or so reports our Language man.

THAT Paul-Jean Toulet comment, which our Love and War man threw out of his file, read, "Love is like those second-rate hotels where all the luxury is in the lobby."

ANDREW JACKSON was the first president to ride on a train. William McKinley was the first president to ride in a car. But who was the first president to ride in an airplane? Say Theodore Roosevelt. He did so on Oct. 11, 1910, in St. Louis, Mo., but after he left office.

Keep those prescription pills out of the reach of your babysitter

Dear Ann Landers: Mothers are often cautioned to keep their prescription pills out of the reach of children. I wonder how many mothers give a second thought to the babysitter?

A friend of mine had a very unfortunate experience recently which I would like to pass along for whatever it's worth, and it might be worth plenty — like a life.

This 15-year-old girl who used to babysit for my friend was rather quiet, extremely well-behaved and considered thoroughly responsible. She sat for my friend almost every Friday or Saturday night for over 18 months.

One morning, very early, the sitter's mother phoned my friend, frantic. It seems the girl had been rushed to the hospital and very nearly died of an overdose. Her mother discovered a large supply of assorted pills in her daughter's bureau drawer. After describing the pills, the mystery was solved. The girl had accumulated them over a period of time while babysitting.

So please, Ann — tell your readers to keep their pills locked up and out of the reach not only of their babies but their sitters. — A Messenger

Dear Messenger: Thank you for this vital information. I hope all who read it will check their medicine cabinets and remove any medication which could be dangerous if taken in large amounts — and this includes aspirin.

Dear Ann Landers: This might seem like petty stuff to you but it bothered me so much that I couldn't sleep last night.

A woman I've known for several years (but not well) is the person I am writing about. She is socially prominent and well-off financially. We have served on several committees together, through the years, but we were never what you might call close friends.

Yesterday I was shopping with my sister-in-law and I saw this woman coming toward me. As we passed I smiled at her and said hello. She walked right by as if I didn't exist. I felt like crawling in a hole.

My sister-in-law said nothing but I know she was aware that I had been roundly snubbed.

Why would a person do such a thing? It seems so cruel I can't understand it. Please explain. — Mrs. Nobody.

Dear Mrs.: You don't mention the woman's age but I'm willing to bet she's over 50. Having passed that mark myself, I can tell you that the eyes aren't what they used to be. Many people who think they've been "roundly snubbed" were not seen. So please reserve judgment, Lady. You've probably done the same to others.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teen-ager who cured myself of shoplifting and I'd like to pass the secret on to other kids who want to quit.

For two years I lifted everything from lipsticks to transistor radios. I'd see something I wanted and I'd help myself. It was sort of fun — like playing a dangerous game, and winning.

Then one day a good friend of mine got caught. I'll never forget the gossip at school, the shame and disgrace, and what it did to her parents. I put myself in that girl's place because I realized it might have been me.

From then on, whenever I got the urge to lift something I imagined that I was the one who got caught. It cured me. I'll never steal again. Sign My Letter — Lucky M

Gourmet's guide to Eskimo cookery

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

If you are one of those who dine with relish upon boiled owl, ptarmigan intestine and soured seal liver you will be interested in a small publication that recently came to my hand, "Eskimo Cook Book," prepared by the students of Shishmaref Day School in Shishmaref, Alaska.

Shismaref, in case you haven't been in the Klondike recently, is none of your modern, bustling Alaskan cities, with paved streets and traffic signals. It is north of Nome, If you please! North of Shaktoolik and Pikmiktalik, Holikachuk and Cape Romanzof. It's even farther north than Kwiguk and Uralakleet and Kushokwim Bay. From Shishmaref you could throw a stone into Siberia.

The recipes for the "Eskimo Cook Book' were brought in by the students to their teacher, Isabelle Bingham, and were okayed for publication by the Shishmaref Student Couuncil, Laura Sockpick, secretary.

I lived in Alaska briefly some years ago, but never graduated from cheechako (newcomer) to sourdough (oldtimer). After reading the young Eskimos' menu of goodies, I expect it's just as well. White whale, seal head, walrus stew and caribou (with gravy) do not exactly set my tastebuds tingling.

The little recipes for these arctic delicacies are charmingly written, even if the fare is a little, er, unusual.

"Boiled tomcod," writes Johnnie Weyiouanna. "Place tomcod fish in cooking pot. Add water and salt. Boil." Straighforward enough, I'd say. Steve Kiyutelluk has a recipe for Nogunut (conch): 'Take the shell off and cook in water. Remove the white things we call brains. Boil them." Uh . . . .

A little Eskimo approves of frozen flounder. "After the flounders are caught," writes Marion Olanna, 'let them freeze. Eat as much as you want of it."

Soured seal liver is apparently not such a hit around the igloo. "Soured seal liver is made in the summer time," Agnes Kiyutelluk notes. "Place liver in enamel pot or dish and cover with blubber. Put in a warm place for a few days until sour. Most of the boys and girls don't like it, except the grown-ups and old people. I don't like it either."

Another taste treat for the senior citizens is ptarmigan small intestine. Alma Nayokpuk writes, "Cook the small intestines about 5 seconds in boiling water. Old men and women always want to eat them."

And so it goes through reindeer soup, sourdough hot cakes, bear feet and raw seal flippers. For a balanced diet, the Eskimo uses greens — asak-luk, na-zek-meek-tak, meloogutdut, and pick'niek (mouse food). Of the latter, Christine Barr writes, "Some people dig pick'niek. They are a plant. They wash them first. We eat them with seal oil. They are good. They taste like sugar. They are very good with seal oil. Maybe the white men don't like them."

And for a delicious dessert at the end of the long night (six months), you are urged to try Eskimo ice cream. "Grate reindeer tallow into small pieces. Add seal oil slowly while . . . ."

Excuse me.

THE DOCTOR COMMENTS

Bee stings don't prevent arthritis

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—When I was a young girl I lived part of my life on a nice farm where we had a hundred scapes of bees. One summer it was my duty to watch where the bees went when they swarmed. I was stung very often. Older people would often see me when wearing a bee sting and would say it was too bad, but now I would not suffer from rheumatism later in life.

Well, now I am 82, and it seems that the old saying may be true. I am curious to know if it is just a happy accident or if they really knew.

DEAR READER—That is often said, but there is nothing to it. Fortunately not everyone gets arthritis and you are one of the lucky ones. You wouldn't have had it even if you had never seen a bee in your life.

This wives' tale is dangerous since bee stings can be dangerous to some people. They can cause a violent shock-like reaction. These people need to be treated to decrease the danger of a severe reaction to an unexpected sting by a bee or wasp.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I agree thoroughly with keeping one's weight down to normal by watching cholesterol, fats, and sugar, plus proper exercise. Two glasses of fortified skim milk per day is a must.

Some of my friends tell me they use nonfat dry milk. When mixed and placed in the refrigerator overnight it tastes all right. It is much less expensive than fortified skim milk. We all know the prohibitive rise in food costs daily. Is this dried milk just as good and will it do the same for you as the more costly skim milk? I cannot see where the word skim is used on the box.

DEAR READER—The dry nonfat milk powder is an excellent food. I recommend its use in low-fat, low-cholesterol food preparation because it is a good source of high quality protein and calcium.

You can increase the amount you use in recipes for desserts, sauces and even in making homemade bread. That increases the calcium and protein in the diet without increasing the fat intake.

Look on the top and bottom on the box. The Carnation brand, for example, says nonfat dry milk on the top and bottom but not the sides. It is as good in every way as the fortified skim milk you buy and is a lot cheaper.

There is an improvement by letting it stand mixed overnight in the refrigerator. Don't ask me why. Adding a little bit of salt also helps enormously. (I don't recommend this for patients who must watch their salt intake.) I have often wondered if in the processing, some salt was lost that affected the flavor.

Still another technique is to add a little bit of honey to the milk and let it stand overnight in the refrigerator. You will notice the honey flavor, but it is an agreeable change.

As most cartons of dry milk powder tell you, it can be mixed with regular milk to improve the flavor. Just mix up a quart of milk with the powder and add it to a quart of regular milk. That will cut down on the fact intake and lower the milk bill. Of course, to keep the fat real low you could use fortified skim milk instead of regular milk for the half and half mixture.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

One theory behind oil-jet paradox

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Disclosure that the United States is selling $756 million worth of jet fighters to Saudi Arabia was notable for its paradoxical timing.

The announcement came a week to the day after the controversial magazine interview in which Secretary of State Kissinger broached the possibility of using military force against Middle East oil producers.

Unless the wells have run dry overnight, Saudi Arabia is one of the leading Middle East oil producers. Which has prompted some observers to speculate that we may be selling them jets to defend themselves against us.

But, thank God, I don't have a cynical bone in my beautiful body. I always assume the officials in charge of these matters know what they are doing.

In this instance my assumption is that the jets-for-Arabia transaction took shape as follows:

President Ford is having one of his meetings with his economic, military and diplomatic advisers to consider ways of dealing with the energy problem and recession.

"Gentlemen, you all know that Arab oil prices are eating us up. We must find a way to reduce our balance-of-payments deficit. Any suggestions?"

Ash of OMB raises his hand. "I'm just thinking off the top of my head, but why couldn't we even things up by selling some of our goods to the Arabs at inflated prices?"

"Good idea," Ford of the White House comments. "What do we have in abundance that is costly enough to offset the oil payment drain?"

"Automobiles," replies Simon of Treasury. "We've got unsold cars running out the gazootie."

Kissinger of State shakes his head. "It won't wash. All of the Middle East petroleum potentates already own several fleets of Cadillacs."

"How about selling them some of our fighter planes" suggests Schlesinger of Defense. "T-5 jets are now bringing about $2.7 million apiece. A few squadrons of those babies would go a long way toward fixing up our trade deficit."

Again Kissinger shakes his head. "That's fine in theory, but thanks to my peace efforts in the Middle East the Arabs no longer feel threatened by Israel. Consequently, there isn't much demand for military hardware."

"I'm still just thinking off the top of my head," Ash injects, "but what if something happened to make them feel threatened by someone else?"

Everyone turns to Kissinger, who scratches his head thoughtfully. "It's got possibliities," he muses. "I'll get back to you on it later. Right now I'm due for an interview I promised to Business Week."

What people say

"We must place these groups in perspective, making them neither modern-day Robin Hoods nor simister fifth columnists about to overthrow our government. We must recognize that domestic terrorists do not constitute a dangerous cancer which requires radical surgery, but rather an infection which is sometimes painful but not by any stretch of the imagination fatal."

California attorney general Evelle J. Younger, predicting that other groups like the Symobionese Liberation Army may surface.

Entrants do not need to know how to write music, but may submit their songs recorded on a casette tape. Entry forms will be on display from Feb. 6 to May 15. Six categories are offered: rock, country, folk, soul and rhythm and blues, "easy listening" and gospel.

Local Radio Shacks are at 3250 N. Garey Ave. and 1335 E., Holt Ave., Pomona; 1006 N. Mountain Ave., Ontario, and 12422 Central Ave., Chino.

Defense gives Steelers title

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — It was 8 a.m. Monday when a hunched-over Franco Harris, protecting himself from the gusty winds outside, entered a downtown hotel.

He walked slowly through the lobby, looking for a friend. His hand then reached under his arm and produced a plastic Viking souvenir helmet. He held it up by a horn and then broke into a big grin.

It told it all.

The Pittsburgh Steelers were champions of the world and the Minnesota Vikings were dead.

Harris played a major role in that title Sunday, setting Super Bowl records as he rushed 34 times for 158 yards and a touchdown in Pittsburgh's 16-6 victory over the Vikings for the National Football League championship. He was named the game's Most Valuable Player and will receive an automobile.

But the Steelers, to a man, credited their defense with the victory, the sixth for an American Conference club over NFC competition in the last seven years.

It was a defensive front four of L.C. Greenwood, Joe Greene, Ernie Holmes and an ailing Dwight White that set another Super Bowl record by allowing Minnesota only 17 yards rushing. It was the defense that scored the only points of the first half, the first safety in Super Bowl history, and it was the defense that time and again turned the ball over to Harris and his offensive mates.

"Most Valuable Player awards are something I don't concern myself with," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "If it was up to me, I would have given a car to every player on the team. They were all valuable."

Noll, who was 1-13 in his rookie coaching year of 1969 and built a powerhouse on skillful drafting, may be in the most enviable position of any coach in the NFL.

Not only is his club the Super Bowl champion, earning each player $25,000 in total playoff money, but the Steelers did it with one of the youngest clubs in the league. The front four averages only 26 years of age and linebacker Andy Russell is the only defense starter over 30, at 33. The secondary averages less than 25.

On offense, Harris is only 24 and still in the learning stage, playing in only his third season. And Terry Bradshaw, the butt of jokes around the league for the past five seasons, is reaching the age where quarterbacks reach their peak. He silenced his critics with three brilliant tactical games in playoff victories over Buffalo, Oakland and Minnesota.

"My dad told Art Rooney (Steeler owner) when the Steelers signed me five years ago that in five years we'd be in the Super Bowl," said Bradshaw, who also had the pleasure of winning the title in his home state. "I don't believe in stuff like that but here we are.

"This has to be the icing on the cake and I'm just glad I'm part of it. I'm just relieved that it's over. A quarterback is judged as a winner or a loser and when I came off the field, I was just savoring the noise and all the emotion. It was just a great satisfying feeling.

"They can say all they want. We got the ring and we're the champs."

Noll said his next objective is to sit down and get ready for the college draft on Jan. 28 and then take a vacation.

Viking Coach Bud Grant also will sit down, but he may do some different thinking. Grant must decide whether to try still another year with his veteran team or begin to rebuild. The Vikings are an old team and have been routed in two straight Super Bowls.

Defensive ends Jim Marshall and Carl Eller are 36 and 32, linebackers Roy Winston and Wally Hilgenberg are 34 and 32, quarterback Fran Tarkenton and safety Paul Krause are 34 and running back Dave Osborn is 31.

Many of the reserves also are in the 30-or-over bracket.

Garey should be No. 1 all year

It wouldn't be a bit surprising if Garey High's basketball team remains the No. 1 ranked team all year in the CIF 3-A division.

The Vikings, who were listed on the top spot of the rankings last week, don't figure to lose in San Antonio League play and aren't really threatened by any other Southern California teams.

Coach Mike Wells' powerhouse from Pomona should strengthen its hold on the No. 1 ranking this week, since the second and third ranked teams struggled through last week.

When last week's rankings came out, Garey sat in the No. 1 slot with 11 first place votes. Los Altos, a team which is boasting a 16-1 record for the season compared to Garey's 13-1, had four first-place votes and a No. 2 ranking.

Palm Springs, a perennial powerhouse, was unbeaten for the year going into last week's play and grabbed the No. 3 ranking with three first-place votes.

But after last weekend's results were in, it's obvious Garey should take this week's poll by a landslide.

Los Altos had to go two overtimes before defeating South Hills in their Sierra League opener early last week, and then came up with only a one-point victory over Wilson High of Hacienda Heights last weekend.

Palm Springs dropped both of its two outings last week, and figures to drop five or six notches in the rating.

* * *

"I think our chances of remaining No. 1 are great," commented Wells. "If we keep winning we should stay there. We were pretty impressive last Friday.

"The players realize they have to keep playing hard in order to stay No. 1,' he added. "We'd like to get to the point where teams stop thinking they can beat us and start to fear us."

The community, obviously, has reacted to the Vikings' ranking favorably.

"They're (the community) real proud," beamed Wells. "I must get about 20 people congratulating me before each game. I just tell them, 'Hey, it's the players who got us there.' I don't know if it has to do with the rankings, but we had a real good turnout last Friday. The place was packed, and I know I saw a few different faces."

* * *

For the past three years, Garey has developed into an excellent basketball school and has turned a few eyes toward the south Pomona school.

Two years ago, under the leadership of University of Oregon's Greg Ballard, the Vikings won the San Antonio League championship and made it to the quarterfinals of the CIF playoffs before being upset by El Modera.

Last year, Garey was forced to rebuild its entire program and sported a very young team which finished third in the SAL race. Four of the five starters from last year's club returned this year, and that's exactly why the Vikings are where they are today.

Two of this year's starters will be back again next year, and again Garey should be a team to beat.

Maybe within two or three years, Garey will create a reputation such as the one produced by Verbum Dei and UCLA.

Everybody knows what UCLA has done. But not too many know that Verbum Dei has won six consecutive CIF championships — the last four being in the 4-A division. The Eagles are favored to win it again this year.

If Garey finally makes it to the CIF finals this year, there should be enough enthusiasm and support for the Vikings that it may turn into an annual affair.

Titans snap Poly's streak

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Cal Poly's winning streak was snapped at four Monday night at Kellogg Gym. But coach Don Hogan was more concerned that the Broncos didn't play well than he was with the fact that they lost.

Hogan wanted most of all to get more playing time for the four players who became eligible this month and he did. The Broncos (4-5) used 11 players in dropping a 61-54 decision to visiting Cal St. Fullerton (8-5), which won its seventh in a row.

Hogan vented his frustration in losing in one short explosion. "Bleep!" he bleeped. "I'm going to kill somebody."

Then he took a deep breath, relaxed and launched a discussion of the game.

"I really feel that I had to go with my concept of experimenting," he remarked. "This is the only chance I have to see and play these people to determine who can help win conference games.

"It was probably a hell of a time to do it when we had a chance to win tonight," he continued. "But you don't know what they can do until you see them play. I'm not a clairvoyant."

The Poly coach gave Aaron Hopwood his first start. The 6-6 junior replaced Bill Cantwell at center. Hopwood missed his first four shots then settled down and connected on four of his next five and grabbed seven rebounds.

Joe Sills got his first start at guard after three starts at forward. He, too, was cold at the outset, hitting only two of six shots in the first half.

But Sills came on in the second half. He connected on four of eight field goal attempts and sank all five of his charity tosses for a total of 17 points to lead the Broncos.

The other two newcomers, Levi Williams and Ken Clark also accumulated a lot more playing time under Hogan's liberal substituting.

The Poly coach is likely to follow the same general formula tonight as the Broncos host Cal Lutheran (5-7) in another non-conference game.

"Neither team played well tonight," Hogan reflected after Monday's loss. "The real competitiveness wasn't there tonight." Fullerton coach Bobby Dye agreed. "I thought both teams looked flat," he said.

Dye used former MSAC stars Jim Bogdanowicz and Gary Nash only sparingly. The 6-5 Bogdanowicz scored only three points while grabbing four rebounds. Nash played only briefly picking up three quick fouls while failing to score.

Both teams shot poorly in the first half. Poly went eight minutes at one stretch with only one basket. The Broncos averaged just 32 percent (10-for-31). But the Titans weren't much better, making only 11 of 33.

So Poly was only down four points, 25-21, at the half. But in the second half, the visitors' superior height took its toll. One player in particular killed the Broncos almost singlehandedly.

John Horger, a 6-9 junior from Anaheim, was 6-for-6 from the floor and sank both of his free throws to score 14 of his 19 points in the second half. He led the Titans with nine rebounds.

Horger didn't even play when the two teams met last month.

Kings get chance to gain ground

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings have a chance to gain some ground in the National Hockey League's Division 3 when they face the Washington Capitals tonight.

The Kings trail first-place Montreal in the division by three points. The Canadiens are idle tonight.

The Kings are off Wednesday and play at Boston Thursday night.

Tony Adams released from Sun's contract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tony Adams, the World Football League's leading passer and one of three players who shared the league's Most Valuable Player award, has been released from his contract with the Southern California Sun and is a free agent, it was announced Monday.

Adams' attorney, Wayne Naphtal, said the 24-year-old Adams was unconditionally released from his Sun contract Jan. 10. A Sun spokesman confirmed the report.

"We did release him from his contract because we missed a couple of pay periods in 1974," the team spokesman said.

"However we feel we're not going to lose Tony," the spokesman added. "We feel we will be able to re-negotiate another contract with him in a few weeks."

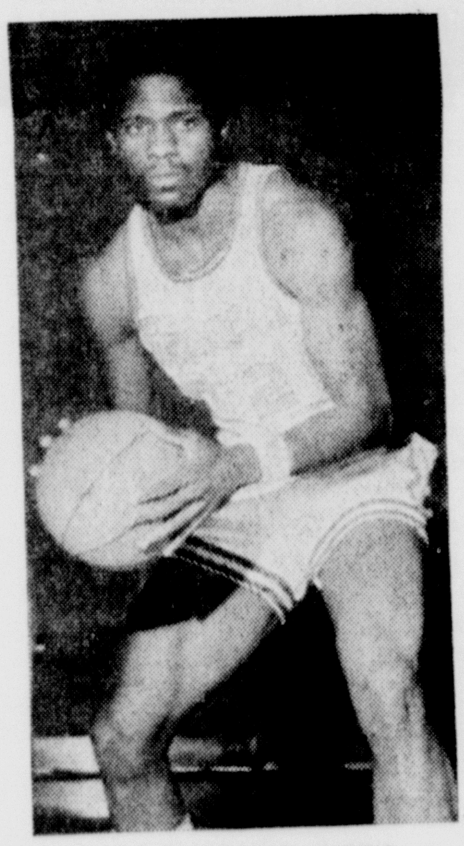
Naphtal said Adams is free to negotiate "with all 26 teams in the National Football League."

"He has already received offers from some teams," Naphtal said, declining to name the teams involved.

Adams, from Utah State, completed 276 of 510 passes for a leagueleading 3,905 yards and 23 touchdowns. He rushed for another eight TDs.

Adams shared the WFL's MVP award with Florida Blazers running back Tommy Reamon and Memphis Southmen running back J.J. Jennings.

Adams was a 14th-round draft choice of the San Diego Chargers in 1973 but remained on the team's taxi squad.



PLAYER OF WEEK

Cal Poly's Paul Newton, a 6-5 junior forward, received the Adohr Farms' Southern California College Division Co-Player of the Week Monday at the weekly luncheon of the Southland basketball writers in Los Angeles.

He shares the weekly honor with Billy Ingram of Biola. Long Beach State's Bob Gross won the award for the University Division.

Newton, who came to Poly from Howard University of Washington, D.C. last year, scored 42 points and grabbed 31 rebounds in the Broncos' three wins last week.

He played on the Los Angeles Jordan High team which won the city championship in 1970 with Poly teammates Levi Williams and David Kennedy.

Jabbar and Barry give West edge

PHOENIX (UPI) — The West, thanks mainly to the presence of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and high-scoring Rick Barry, is a three-point favorite to beat the East in tonight's 25th annual National Basketball Association All-Star game.

● KNXT (2), 7 p.m.

Abdul-Jabbar, the 7-foot-2 center of the Milwaukee Bucks, is rated the dominant player in professional basketball today. Despite missing the first six weeks of the season because of a scratched eyeball suffered in an exhibition game, he still shows a 29-point average and was the leading vote-getter among the starting players named to the West squad by the fans.

In contrast to previous years, fans were allowed to vote for the five starters on each squad and Abdul-Jabbar led all West players with 77,832 votes. Barry, of Golden State, leads the NBA in scoring with a 33-point average and received 60,547 votes to nail down a starting forward position in the game that begins at 7 p.m. PST and will be nationally televised (CBS).

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, who warmed up for tonight's performance by scoring 41 points and pulling down 13 rebounds against Boston Sunday, topped all players in votes with 98,325 and will start opposite Abdul-Jabbar at the opening tap-off. The remainder of the East starters include the New York Knicks' backcourt duo of Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe, along with forwards John Havlicek of Boston and Elvin Hayes of Washington.

The game will mark Havlicek's seventh straight All-Star game appearance and the ninth in his 13-year career.

Starting for the West, along with Abdul-Jabbar and Barry, are guards Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles and foward Spencer Haywood of Seattle.

K.C. Jones of Washington, whose Bullets have won 29 of their first 41 games this season and sport a league-leading winning percentage of .707, will coach the East, while Al Attles of Pacific Division-leading Golden State will coach the West.

Rounding out the East squad are guards Jo Jo White of Boston and Phil Chenier of Washington, forwards Dave Cowens and Paul Silas of Boston, Rudy Tomjanovich of Houston and Steve Mix of Philadelphia and center Wes Unseld of Washington.

They were selected to the team by the Eastern Conference coaches, while the West coaches selected the remaining seven players on that team and they include: guards Dave Bing of Detroit, Charlie Scott of Phoenix, and Jim Price of Milwaukee, forwards Bob Dandridge of Milwaukee and Sidney Wicks of Portland and centers Bob Lanier of Detroit and Sam Lacey of Kansas City-Omaha.

Prior to the game, the NBA's Board of Governors will meet and are expected to continue their discussions centering around the naming of a successor to Commissioner Walter Kennedy, who will leave his post Jan. 1.

Saints greet Mustangs in battle for first place

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

By Wednesday night, there will be only one leader in the Hacienda League basketball race.

It'll probably be Walnut High, but San Dimas High isn't about to give in that easily.

Going into this week of play, Walnut is ranked fourth in the CIF 2-A poll, boasts an 11-4 record for the season, and sports a 2-0 mark in league competition.

San Dimas, on the other hand, only has a 3-6 record for the season but also has come up with a 2-0 mark in the Hacienda.

The two are presently tied for the league lead, and will face off Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. in the Saints' gym to decide which team will have the undisputed lead.

In other Hacienda League action Wednesday, Bonita visits Sierra Vista, Ontario hosts Royal Oak, and Alta Loma will travel to Gladstone. All games are slated for 3:15 p.m. tipoffs.

Both Walnut's and San Dimas' records are a little misleading, and it's not really in the Saints' favor.

Of the four Walnut losses this season, three have been by one point and two of those have been to the 2-A's second-ranked Miraleste Marauders.

San Dimas is a well-disciplined team and could probably give Walnut a good game, but the Saints' two victories came against probably the two worst teams in the league.

They knocked off lowly Ontario (2-10) for openers, and then dumped winless Royal Oak (0-10) last weekend.

This game will really test the Saints, who are paced by this week's valley Player of the Week Steve Brahs. Brahs, who is averaging 19.8 points an outing, is the valley's fourth-leading point-producer.

The fact that San Dimas guard Bobby Childress is steadily improving as far as scoring is concerned, may better the Saints' chances against the much taller Mustangs.

Walnut's starting lineup is full of talent.

Foward Ken Czarnecki (6-4) is the leading scorer on the club with his 15.7 average, while his front line mates of forward Cliff Manning (6-3) and center Jay Wetzel (6-5) are averaging 13.2 and 10.5 points respectively.

Guard Kelly Bowlin is also in the double-figure category with his 10.9 average. His backcourt partner, Tommy Thompson, doesn't score much (4.5 average) but he holds the CIF record for most assists in one game — 18. He usually pitches about an average of 10 scoring passes per outing.

Bonita shouldn't have much trouble with Sierra Vista, and Alta Loma should handle Gladstone with relative ease.

Ontario and Royal Oak will be playing for the cellar spot, with both of them favored to win it.

Super celebration greets champs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — In a celebration described by city officials as "just super," an estimated 100,000 cheering fans welcomed home the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers Monday.

Police Superintendent Robert Colville said the crowd that stood shoulder to shoulder in the city's famed Golden Triangle Monday to greet the team was "tame" compared to the 11,000 that moved into the downtown area Sunday night when police made 230 arrests on disorderly conduct and intoxication charges.

"We had businessmen, workers, men and women with their children here today, but last night (Sunday) it was mostly disorderly youths," Colville said.

The crowds lined every available space along the parade route and spilled out into the streets in some sections past restraining ropes when the 50-car motorcade, bearing the players and their wives and team officials, entered the downtown area.

Police said the crowd was "generally orderly," but at least 76 persons were arrested, mostly for drunkeness, in sharp contrast to those taken into custody Sunday after the Steelers had defeated the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IX and exuberant fans staged a spontaneous celebration.

Hundreds of youths danced in the streets, some to the strains of polka bands while others gyrated to hard rock combos under bright, sunny skies but with temperatures in the mid-20s.

Confetti, chopped pieces of computer cards, ripped up telephone books and newspapers covered the streets. Rolls of toilet paper were draped over utility lines like giant pieces of spaghetti.

Youths climbed trees, utility poles and street lights to get a vantage view of the parade led by Mayor Pete Flaherty with Quarterback Terry Bradshaw in the lead car. One UPI reporter assigned to the celebration said Flaherty and Bradshaw looked "scared" when the fans closed in on their car and began pounding on the roof and windows.

Many of the youths, some of high school age, drank beer openly from bottles and cans.

Bartender Danny Noble, who dispenses drinks at a downtown restaurant said he sold six barrels of beer in about 3½ hours, "the most I ever sold in this short a period of time"

Police officials had been prepared for a crush of 300,000 people into the downtown area but they felt that the many arrests made Sunday night and the sub-freezing temperatures tended to hold down the crowd.

The motorcade entered the downtown area about an hour after two planes carrying the players, their families and Steelers officials landed at the Greater Pittsburgh International Airport about 3:15 p.m.

All along the parkway to the city, which had been closed to regular traffic, people stood along the berm and waved signs and Steeler pennants. Hundreds gathered on the overpasses to get a glimpse of their heroes.

A sign hanging outside the gray, stone walls of the Allegheny County Prison in downtown Pittsburgh, proclaimed: "Super Stealers win Super Bowl IX."

Tarkenton out of Pro Bowl

MIAMI (UPI) — Quarterback Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings has been excused from playing in the annual pro bowl here Monday night because of sore muscles in his throwing arm.

Cornerback Jimmy Johnson of the San Francisco 49ers also was excused from participating in the game by Coach Chuck Knox of the National Football Conference team. Knox said Johnson asked to be excused because he is considering retiring from the National Football League.

Tarkenton, who has never missed a regular season game due to injuries, will be replaced at quarterback for the NFC squad by Knox' own quarterback, James Harris of the Los Angeles Rams.

Johnson will be replaced by Ken Ellis of the Green Bay Packers.

Wooden says he's pleased with results

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The season after Lew Alcindor, now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, left UCLA, the Bruins posted a 28-2 record and won the 1970 NCAA basketball title by beating Jacksonville at College Park, Md.

"This team," UCLA Coach John Wooden said Monday, "reminds me quite a bit of that team.

"We had a lot of games that year where we were able to get substantial early leads but then struggled before the night was over. But we were able to finish on top so I'd be very happy if this team would continue to remind me of that team."

Speaking at the weekly meeting of the Southern California Basketball Writers, Wooden said "Overall I was pleased with our play" in the Bruins' Pacific-8 opening games last week.

UCLA beat Washington 92-82 and Washington State 77-69 at Pauley Pavilion. The Bruins are at Stanford and California next weekend.

While the Bruins won two last week, Stanford and Cal split games at Oregon and Oregon State.

"We know it's not easy in the Oregon area," Wooden remarked. "We found that out last year (UCLA lost on the road to Oregon and Oregon State).

"The old saying that if you can win at home and split on the road you have a real good chance to win your conference is definitely true as far as our conference is concerned this year. I still feel after the opening weekend that any one team in our conference can beat any other team on any night."

University of Southern California also is 2-0 in the Pacific-8 but had its problems at home in beating Washington State 94-80 and Washington 89-87.

But Trojans' coach Bob Boyd did not sound unhappy.

"It isn't a foregone conclusion that if you have a close game at home you must lose on the road to the same team," he pointed out.

Players' group backs off

NEW YORK (UPI) — Another potential "High Noon" showdown between the Major League Players' Association and baseball's owners was averted Monday when the Players' Association backed down on its grievance suit contesting the validity of the renewal clause—but they reserved the right to meet at a later date.

The association's complaint stemmed from the case of San Diego outfielder Bobby Tolan.

Tolan, who played the entire 1974 season without a contract before signing a two-year agreement last month, and the Players' Association had planned Tuesday to present a grievance dealing with the meaning of paragraph 10A of the uniform players' contract— which concerns the renewal clause—to the same three-man arbitration panel that declared pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter a free agent last Dec. 14.

However, in a letter Jan. 9, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, withdrew both grievances without prejudice, explaining that:

—the "Basic Agreement" between the players and owners expires at the end of the year;

—with Tolan's signing on Dec. 9, no players currently playing are without contracts and could attain free agent status before the end of 1975;

—any players whose contracts expire before the Basic Agreement would either have to decide to go to arbitration or sign what was offered;

—therefore, the two parties could negotiate not only this dispute but a wider range of issues by discussing all this in the negotiations over the Basic Agreement.

The board, which was to have consisted of Miller; John Gaherin, representing the owners; and Peter Seitz of the American Arbitration Association, would have determined a club's right to renew for one year an unsigned player's contract from the previous year.

The owners contended that the renewal clause should become part of the renewed contract, a position which, if upheld, amounts to perpetual contract renewals. The players feel that, like pro football, where a player plays out his option after one year, the renewal provision should also be for one year.

"We're trying to build good faith going into our bargaining," Miller told UPI in explaining the association's position. "Besides which, we think it would be better to approach the entire subject all at once without this thing coming down the middle. We don't think anything constructive can be done before the negotiations.

"This situation involves only a small facet of the reserve rules. Our problem is bigger than this.

"No one will be affected until after the negotiations, anyway."

Miller said the owners' committee responded well to the withdrawal of the grievance.

"Mr. Gaherin said he regarded the move as constructive and that the best way to resolve differences was between the parties themselves," Miller said.

Tolan's case developed after the San Diego outfielder played the 1974 season without a contract. The Players' Association asked Commissioner Bowie Kuhn after the World Series to remove Tolan from the Padres' reserve list—an act which would have made Tolan a free agent. Kuhn, however, declined, maintaining that Tolan was still a Padre. Tolan then signed his contract for an estimated $70,000.

Other players who played unsigned during past seasons included Sparky Lyle, Stan Bahnsen, Doyle Alexander, Rick Reichardt, Mike Andrews and Ted Simmons.

But, as the seasons went along, the players finally agreed to terms, with Lyle signing his 1974 contract on the last day of the season.

Even if the decision would have been favorable to the players, it would have had no effect on other uniform contract provisions such as trades, sales, waiver procedures and the free agent draft. The owners were afraid, though, that an unfavorable decision would create a tremendous pool of free agents. A player would thus become free by not signing a contract for one year and playing for up to a 20 per cent cut off his previous year's salary.

Leos, Azusa try to regain winning ways at Supertent

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Both La Verne and Azusa Pacific will be trying to regain the winning touch tonight.

APC (7-5) invades the Supertent dragging a three-game losing streak with it. The Cougars losses have come at the hands of UC Riverside (84-66), Occidental (82-74), and UC San Diego (101-74).

Wednesday's games

Occidental at Claremont-Mudd, 8 p.m.
Redlands at Whittier, 8 p.m.

La Verne played two games last week and split. The Leopards defeated Claremont-Mudd (47-42) and dropped an overtime decision to Occidental (61-57).

"We played pretty good basketball at Oxy," said La Verne coach Art Bias. "But the last 35 seconds killed us. It was a mental mistake that cost us, but we're not out of it yet and I think we'll improve vastly this month."

The game was tied 57-57 at Oxy when Bias called a time out with 30 seconds left. The coach set up a play and instructed his players to run the clock down and not take a shot at all if they couldn't get a good one.

"We didn't want Oxy to get the ball," Bias explained. "We'd rather play another overtime."

But five seconds after play resumed, one of the Leos tried a shot which was blocked. Oxy controlled the ball and scored and went on to win.

Tonight's foe, APC, has been hampered by injuries. The Cougars lost forward Mike Leatherby for a week and the former Walnut and MSAC star subsequently missed a week. He was still only about 80 percent recovered as of last Saturday.

Center Keith Walker sprained an ankle after Leatherby was hurt. Walker was averaging 16 points a game. He was still unable to start as of Saturday although he did play, but scored only four points.

"They beat us by 18 points last time," Bias remembered. "We'll have no trouble getting up for them. And I'm sure they'll be just as anxious to end their losing streak."

The Cougars dealt the Leos a 92-74 loss in the first round of the Redlands Tournament in December.

La Verne's main problem of late has been its shooting percentage. For some reason, the Leopards have been able to connect on only about 35 per cent of their shots.

Against Occidental, they shot well enough the first half, 48 per cent, but tailed off to 8-of-23 in the second half and one-of-seven in the overtime.

Part of the problem has been that Bill Rockwood, who led the conference in field goal percentage last year, hasn't been able to hit consistently this year. The 6-4 Rockwood has been switched from center to forward to make room for 6-5 Tim Gillete at center.

"Bill isn't seeing the basket the way he should," said Bias. "He isn't concentrating as he shoots and the shots aren't going in."

If Big Bill can regain his touch, the Leos have a three-pronged attack of Gillette, Rockwood and guard Dave Castenadas, all of whom should average in double figures.

"We're playing better," Bias said. "The players know what they have to do to win."

After tonight's non-conference tilt with APC, the Leos resume conference play Saturday by hosting Redlands.

Steve Brahs now third in scoring

San Dimas's Steve Brahs has pulled from fifth up to fourth place in the valley high school scoring derby.

The 6-3 senior forward is averaging 19.8 points per game behind leaders Mark McQuaid of Chaffey (25.4), Harold Drake of Bonita (22.4) and Mike Toomay of Claremont (21.6).

Brahs scored 40 points in his last two outings, hitting 22 against Royal Oak and 18 against Ontario.

There are three new members in the top 10 this week, Webb School's Wally Pitts with a 17.4 average (eighth), Ontario Christian's Ed Sytsma with a 16.0 average (ninth) and Walnut's Ken Czarnecki with a 15.7 average (tenth).

Chino second in tourney

Four Chino High wrestlers were crowned champions at the Kennedy (La Palma) Tournament over the weekend, and the Cowboys came home with a second place team trophy.

The four champions included Dave Saucedo in the 97-pound division, Gil Almendarez at 122, Joe Alaniz at 129, and Bob Janecek at 135.

The Cowboys also had three third-place finishers in John Rohrer (114), Sal Pinedo (140), and Kip Grubb (183). Al Pimentel (147) took a fourth.

As a team, Chino ended up with 76½ points and finished behind Foothill, which had 85 points.

The Cowboys open San Antonio League action Thursday against Ganesha (5:30 p.m.) at Chino.

Chaffey High hosts Pacific for CBL lead

Chaffey High will hope to gain a share of the Citrus Belt League lead tonight when it takes on Pacific in the Tiger gym, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers (1-1, 7-4) are one game behind the league-leading Pirates (2-0, 9-3), and a Chaffey victory could possibly throw the race into a real dogfight.

There could be a possibility of a four-way tie for the lead after tonight in the six-team circuit.

Junior center Mark McQuaid, the valley's leading scorer with a 25.4 average, and senior forward Brian Jacobs (18.9) will probably again lead the Tigers.

Other valley high school games scheduled for tonight sees Big Bear at La Verne Lutheran and Webb at Aquinas in Arrowhead League play, and Ontario Christian at Brethren in Olympic League competition. The Webb game was scheduled for 4:30 p.m. today, while the other two are slated for 8 p.m. starts.

Poly suffers loss; goes again tonight

In the first half, Poly led only once, 6-5. The Broncos didn't catch the Titans again until 5:31 into the second half when Paul Newton's bucket knotted the score 33-33.

Richard Gross put Poly ahead for the second and last time, 37-36, with exactly 10 minutes left in the game. But buckets by Donnie Daniels and Horger gave Fullerton the lead for good and the Broncos were never able to get closer than three points.

They were still only three points down; 53-50, after Sills' two free throws with 3:07 remaining. But Daniels broke free for two layups and Duane Bonner got another and it was suddenly 59-50 with only 1:43 left.

Hopwood scored to make it 59-52 and when Fullerton turned the ball over, it looked like Poly might rally.

But an offensive foul nullified another Hopwood bucket. Bonner threw the ball away and Daniels fouled Sills, who sank both charity tosses in a one-and-one situation to cut the lead to 59-54 with just 34 seconds left.

When Daniels stepped out of bounds it turned the ball over to the Broncos with just 29 seconds left and Fullerton called a time out. But Dave Kennedy threw the ball away at the 24-second mark and the pressure was off Fullerton. The Titans' last two points came on free throws after Poly fouls.

Garey shares soccer lead with Claremont

With one week gone in the San Antonio League soccer battle, three-time defending champion Claremont and upcoming Garey are tied for the league lead.

Both will try to extend their records Wednesday afternoon when the second week of SAL competition gets underway.

Claremont (2-0) will host Webb School (1-1), while Garey (2-0) entertains Chino (1-0-1).

In the other two league confrontations, Damien (0-2) visits Montclair (0-2) and Pomona (0-2) hosts Ganesha (1-0-1).

Other than the Pomona-Ganesha game, all of the others are scheduled to get underway at 2:30 p.m. The Red Devils have scheduled theirs for 3:15 p.m.

Going into this week, Claremont is the No. 2 ranked team in CIF, while Chino was ranked 12th and Garey 15th.

Obviously, the best game of the day should be the Chino-Garey battle.

The Cowboys, who may lose their 12th ranking this week due to their 2-2 tie with Ganesha last Friday, are led by returnees Ed Marquez and Victor Campos.

Garey, hoping to move up in the rankings this week, usually gets its scoring punch from Peter Manzo and the Trejo Brothers, Frank and Joe.

Independiente to play game at Coliseum

LOS ANGELES—World soccer champion Independiente of Buenos Aires, Argentina has signed to meet European power Vojuodina of Yugoslavia at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 26, at the Los Angeles Coliseum. It will be the only United States game for the world title holder.

Independiente won the world soccer crown in 1973 with a 1-0 victory against Juventus in Rome. The world titlist is now preparing to defend its championship against European Cup champion Bayern Munich later this year.

Independiente is negotiating the title tournament with Bayern Munich for $300,000 per game in the home-and-home series.

Besides the world crown, Independiente has captured the Americas championship five times. But despite its impressive credentials, the South American soccer power has never played in Los Angeles.

The starting 11 players for Argentina in last year's World Cup tournament boasted four players from Independiente. The four World Cup starters are goalie Miguel Santoro, forwards Ricardo Bertori and Augustin Balbuena and one of South America's finest defensemen, Francisco Sa.

Vojuodina's lineup sports four World Cup veterans.

It has always been among the top teams in Yugoslavia. This year, Vojuodina is battling for the Yugoslav national title with perennial rivals Red Star and Hajduk Split.

Vojuodina has played in the United States on one other occasion, blasting many-time Mexican champion Club America, 7-2, at the Coliseum.

Tickets for the game are on sale at the Los Angeles Sports Arena and all Ticketron, Liberty and Mutual ticket agencies. Advance ticket sale prices are $5.50 for adults, $3 for ages 10-17 and $1 for youngsters under 10. Adult tickets sold on the day of the game are priced at $7.

Hatfield put on probation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Larry Hatfield, owner of the Southern California Sun of the World Football League, was placed on three years probation and fined $5,000 Monday for submitting false information on a loan application.

The 38-year-old Hatfield was assessed the maximum fine by U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne Jr.

Hatfield was originally charged with submitting false applications for three separate loans in 1973 totaling $474,000.

Hatfield entered a guilty plea Dec. 16 to one of the charges, involving a $65,000 loan, and the other two charges were dropped.

Hatfield admitted he forged a copy of a convertible debenture and submitted it to the bank. He also admitted his application contained false information concerning his liabilities.

15th Annual Winternationals

Defending champs return

Professional points champions Gary Beck, Shirl Greer and Bob Glidden headline the lineup for the 15th renewal of the National Hot Rod Association Winternationals drag races at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona, Jan. 30-Feb. 2.

Beck, in only his third full year of professional racing, established a record in 1974 with three major event victories and one runner-up. The 33-year-old touring pro from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, began his record run last February by winning the Winternationals.

He followed up with victories at the NHRA Springnationals at Columbus, Ohio, and the NHRA Grandnational-Molson at Montreal, Canada. He was runner-up to Dave Settles, Houman, La., at the NHRA Gatornationals at Gainesville, Fla.

At the 1974 Winternationals, Beck qualified fourth with a time of 6.02 seconds. In final eliminations, however, the Canadian put together a series of four consecutive five-second times for a convincing victory.

His semifinal time of 5.84 seconds stands as an all-time Winternationals best. His other times were 5.96, 5.90 and 5.94 seconds.

Greer, a veteran of more than 20 years in competitive drag racing, won his first ever major national event when he drove his Ford Mustang to a Funny Car Eliminator victory in the Grandnational-Molson.

That triumph, coupled with strong non-winning performances at the other national events and a Division II World Championship Series victory, brought the native of Warner Robins, Ga., the World points title in a tight battle with a half dozen other drivers.

Glidden, winner of the U.S. Nationals the last two years in Pro Stock Eliminator, will launch his 1974 Winternationals bid in the same car in which he won four major events the last two years.

Glidden's 1973 Ford Pinto was a three-time winner last season when it claimed top honors in the Springnationals, the U.S. Nationals at Indianapolis, Ind., and the season-ending Supernationals-World Finals at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

More than $250,000 in cash and contingency awards are at stake in the four-day event which begins with technical inspection and time trials Thursday, Jan. 30. Inspection will be completed Friday with time trials and qualifying continuing through Saturday. Final eliminations to determine championships in Top Fuel, Funny Car, Pro Stock, Pro Comp, Competition, Modified, Super Stock and Stock.

Tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets, Liberty agencies and Wallich's Music City Stores on advance basis. Tickets will be available at the gate throughout the event.

Indiana uses stall to beat Minnesota

By United Press International

Indiana must be as good as its No. 1 ranking indicates because opposing coaches are beginning to seek moral victories when they play the Hoosiers.

A moral victory, that's the saccharine substitute used when you can't have the real thing.

Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman was availing himself of moral victories Monday night after Indiana rolled over his young Gophers team, 79-59.

With a team as tall and strong as the North Woods, Minnesota utilized a zone defense in the first half to contain Indiana. But, once the Hoosiers had gained a nine-point lead with six minutes left in the game, Indiana spread out its offense and went into a stall to force the Gophers out of their zone.

The tactic proved effective as the Hoosiers easily stretched their nine-point margin to the final 20-point difference.

But Musselman found a silver lining in his team's demise against the heavily-favored Hoosiers.

"When the No. 1 team in the country holds the ball for six minutes against a bunch of freshmen and sophomores, I think that shows what they think of our club," Musselman said.

"I think they're an excellent team, but we're not too bad either."

Musselman said Indiana "had to fight their hearts out to win."

Indiana led 43-37 at halftime, but Minnesota fought back to within two points before the Hoosiers took command again. They called time out with six minutes to play and went into a controlled offense, gradually extending their lead.

"We had enough points that we were going to shoot only when we got an uncontested layup or got fouled," Indiana Coach Bobby Knight said.

The Hoosiers' victory was a school record 18th in a row and tightened their hold on first place in the Big Ten with a 4-0 mark.

Scott May scored 19 points to lead Indiana. Hoosier sophomore Kent Benson finished with 17 points and senior Steve Green had 14. Minnesota's 6-foot-10 freshman Mark Olberding got game scoring honors with 23 points.

In other games involving nationally-ranked teams, seventh-ranked Alabama struggled past Mississippi, 74-71, and No. 10 Kentucky edged 16th-rated Tennessee, 88-82.

Leon Douglas, Charles Russell and Johnny Dill each converted a pair of free throws in the closing minutes to carry the Southeastern Conference leading Crimson Tide to its 10th victory in 11 games. Charles Cleveland led Alabama with 20 points, while Russell had 19 and Douglas 17. Ole Miss' Dave Shepherd scored 21 points.

Kentucky's superior height and bench strength enabled the Wildcats to withstand a late Tennessee assault. Wildcat senior Kevin Grevey scored 24 points to lead Kentucky, but freshmen Jack Givens and Don Hall came off the bench to provide crucial scoring in the second half.

Givens finished to 18 points to offset Tennessee freshman Bernard King, who scored 19 points. Sophomore Ernie Grunfeld, like King a New York import, led the Vols with 26 points.

In other major games, Pittsburgh overcame a 15-point second half deficit to take an 84-77 overtime victory over Notre Dame; Vanderbilt blasted Georgia, 102-80; Illinois defeated Wisconsin, 72-56; Ohio State rolled over Iowa, 94-77; Purdue edged Northwestern, 73-72; Auburn topped Florida, 8468; Virginia nipped Davidson, 58-56, and Texas Tech downed Houston, 86-82.

Conference to review cage fight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — West Coast Athletic Conference Commissioner Rev. Robert A. Sunderland said Monday he plans a full review of the brawl during the Loyola-Nevada Reno basketball game involving Reno Coach Jim Padgett.

Padgett slugged Loyola center Don Jackson during the incident Saturday night. Padgett's son, Pete, the Reno center, exchanged punches with Jackson before the elder Padgett joined in.

All three were ejected from the game. Loyola went on to win 109-84.

"Before making any decision on this case I will review reports from the officials, the athletic directors from both schools and both coaches," Sunderland said. He did not say what action might be taken against the Reno coach.

"It was an emotional thing," said Loyola Coach Dave Benadaret. "You have to consider the father-son relationship. I know Jim and Pete are very close."

The Reno coach was out helping separate the players during the first half altercation when he suddenly slugged Jackson in the forehead.

"I understand he said he was being jostled or something of that nature," Benadaret said. "But I don't recall that. I just recall him swinging at Don.

"I would suggest that he just blacked out for that second," Benadaret said. "Maybe it had something to do with his son standing there."

Pete Padgett suffered a cut on his face which required five stitches to close.

Lopez opens as favorite

ANAHEIM — Danny (Little Red) Lopez has opened as a 10-7 choice over veteran Famoso Gomez in their 10-rounder, which marks the return of pro boxing at the Anaheim Convention Center.

Lopez and Gomez top an all star fight card Saturday night.

Co featured will be a lightweight 10-rounder between Irish Jimmy Heair and Arturo Leon.

Lopez, just 22-years old, puts an outstanding record on the line. Danny has 23 wins against two losses, highlighted by 22 knockouts.

Gomez has engaged in over 60 bouts, meeting champions like Ruben Olivares, Rafael Herrera and Rodolfo Martinez. His most recent victory was a decision over Art Hafey in Tifuana, December 17, 1974.

Tickets are now on sale at the Convention Center box office, Broadway, Sears, and Montgomery Ward stores and all United California Banks in Orange County.

Cal Poly hosts all-comer meet

Cal Poly, Pomona track coach Fred Jones, already smelling success in area all-comer meets, has scheduled the same type of event for the Bronco cinders.

The all-comer meet, under the auspices of Cal Poly, Pomona Associates will get underway at 2 p.m. on Jan. 17. A total of 20 events will be run with both female and male athletes eligible to run in the meet.

A 50 cent entry fee per athlete will be required and checks should be made payable to Cal Poly, Pomona Associates.

Competition will be broken down to three divisions: Novice, Open and Masters, the latter being for athletes 35 years of age or over.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The California Angels Monday signed their No. 1 and No. 3 picks in last Thursday's secondary phase of baseball's free agent draft.

The Angels' top pick in the secondary phase, Gil Kubski, a centerfielder from Cal State Northridge, will be sent to Quad Cities Class A team in Davenport, Iowa. Kubski is the son of Al Kubski, the Angels' supervisor of western scouts.

The No. 3 pick, catcher Terry Stupy of UC Irvine, will join Salinas of the California League, also a Class A team.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Memphis State Athletic Director Billy Murphy said Monday he had received permission to discuss the Memphis State football coaching job with Mississippi State head coach Bob Tyler.

The Memphis Press-Scimitar said Murphy received permission from Mississippi State Athletic Director Charlie Shira to talk to Tyler.

"Murphy called me and asked for permission to talk with Coach Tyler," Shira told the newspaper. "I gave it to him—reluctantly."

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Paul Rice, an All-America running back from Lewisville High School who two weeks ago signed a letter of intent to SMU, is leaving Saturday for the West Coast and a USC football jersey.

The 5'11", 185-pounder made his decision upon returning from California after the New Year's holiday where he was USC's guest at the Rose Bowl.

Last season Rice piled up 1,057 yards rushing on his way to being named a second straight year to the Parade Magazine All-America list.

The 18-year-old graduates from high school Friday and leaves for USC Saturday.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Sabres have lost All-Star center Gil Perreault for six weeks with a severely strained left knee, the team announced Monday.

The injury, which was first thought to be only a bruise, was detected in x-rays Monday, the day after Perreault was hurt in the third period of a Buffalo win over Vancouver.

Perreault has 27 goals and 34 assists in the Sabres' first 42 games of the season. The injury will keep him out of the National Hockey League All-Star game Jan. 21.

The center of the Sabres' "French Connection" line suffered an injury to the same leg last season which kept him out of action for eight weeks.

BOONE, N.C. (UPI) — Appalachian State University basketball coach Press Maravich, father of pro star Pete Maravich, announced Monday he will resign at the end of the season after compiling a record of 12-51 over the past two and one-half seasons.

"I feel now is the time to step aside as the head basketball coach and hope that you will be able to further improve the program under a new head coach," said Maravich in a letter to Athletic Director Jim Jones.

"I do this with the view that it is the best move for my future, the future of my family and the basketball program here at ASU."

Maravich, who came to Appalachian in 1972 after head coaching posts at Clemson, North Carolina State and Louisiana State, has compiled a 1-10 record this season.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Valerie Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif., scored the major upset Monday in the opening round of the $75,000 Virginia Slims tennis tourney here by outlasting Australia's seventh-seeded Helen Gourlay, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

In other first-round matches Monday night, sixth-seeded Julie Heldman, Houston, Tex., breezed by Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec, 6-4, 6-1, and fifth-seeded Nancy Gunter, Lake Livingston, Tex., had even less trouble with Ann Kiyomura, San Mateo, Calif., winning 6-2, 6-1.

In the night's other match, Betty Stove of The Netherlands eliminated Mona Schallau, Iowa City, Iowa, but the American forced the match to three sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

LONDON (UPI) — Challenger Bunny Johnson knocked out Danny McAlinden in the ninth round of their 15-round fight to win the British and Commonwealth heavyweight boxing titles Monday night.

Johnson showed superior boxing skill in fending off McAlinden as he came forward throwing body punches.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER
Q. "WHAT MAKES POPCORN POP ?"

Popcorn is one of the favorite "fun foods" of young and old alike.

As far as most children are concerned, the magic of popcorn is its ability to "pop."

Popcorn kernels are small and very hard. Each kernel has a little moisture in it.

When you heat popcorn kernels in a popcorn popper, the heat turns the moisture inside the popcorn kernels into steam.

The hot steam expands and build up a great pressure inside the kernel, but the hard shell keeps the steam from escaping.

The hotter the steam gets, the more it pushes against the tough shell.

The pressure finally bursts the shell with a popping sound, and the starchy inside puffs out into a white, fluffy kernel of popcorn many times the size of the original kernel.

A cup of popcorn kernels makes a big bagful of popped corn.

Other kinds of corn crack and parch (dry out) when heated, but do not pop.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Bright spot for Wall Streeters: financing new hospital buildings

NEW YORK (UPI) — One bright spot for Wall Streeters in the gloomy year 1974 was selling securities to finance new hospital buildings.

This business could be even better in the next few years. It's strictly a bond and debenture market. Selling stock in the public companies that build or lease hospitals is just as difficult (nearly impossible at the moment) as selling stock in other new ventures.

But the American Hospital Association says about $5.5 billion was raised for hospital construction in 1974.

Of this, $4 billion was raised for the traditional nonprofit hospitals. Another $1.5 billion was raised through tax-exempt revenue bond issues of municipalities to finance building or expansion of hospitals that are placed under operating contracts to be managed by the for-profit hospital corporations.

Robert C. McCormack, a vice president of Dillon Read & Co., has acquired an expertise in this field that has been recognized by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). He says there is a market of about $40 billion in the years ahead for Wall Street firms in expanding hospitals and replacing the one-third of the nation's hospital beds that are obsolete by strict federal standards.

Hospital financing is a very special field, McCormack said, and success requires careful planning and thorough study of the feasibility of the project both from the standpoint of the doctors or other persons pressing it and from a community standpoint. He said the field presently shows wide discrepancies in per diem costs in hospital operation, often reflecting unnecessary duplication of facilities with resulting wasteful excess capacity.

Those who go into the business must be prepared to avoid wasteful, duplicating facilities and must be concerned as much with lowering the cost of delivering medical care as with making a profit by selling securities, he said. Otherwise, they risk falling into serious traps.

Some new hospitals and hospital expansions are financed under provisions of the Hill-Burton Act which permits grants and direct or guaranteed loans by HEW of up to 90 per cent of the project cost. Other types of financing in the hospital field include tax-exempt municipal bonds, public revenue bonds, taxable first mortgage bonds, FHA insured mortgages and lease financing. Not all new hospitals are nonprofit and taxable securities must be floated to finance the proprietary institutions.

There are some very tricky aspects to this kind of financing, McCormack pointed out. For example, it may develop that because of Medicare's huge share of a hospital's business and the rule by which Medicare payments may cover a hospital's interest and depreciation charges but no amortization cost, the hospital's only source of cash flow to meet principal payments will come from depreciation. That makes it imperative to gear these principal payments to the depreciation schedule.

Another indication of the size of the market is the fact 135 million Americans, three out of four of those under 65, now have some form of hospital insurance and Medicare provides for those over 65.

Study says earth shoe aids 70% of wearers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — As the Earth shoe craze sweeps the nation, a California Podriatric Medical Center study suggested Thursday that the shoes are good for 70 per cent of the population—and bad for the rest.

The independent study was funded by Kalso Systemet Inc., maker of the shoe whose busy outlets have sprung up in 70 cities in four years.

Earth shoes, whose form fitting design shocks the eye, are distinguished by "negative heels." The heels are a half-inch lower than the ball of the foot.

Dr. Paul Scherer of the podriatric center said patients with very high arches or with severe flat feet can not tolerate Earth shoes.

The shoes also can be harmful to some diabetics with the potential of developing ulcers on the bottoms of their feet, he said.

But, on the basis of a study of 157 men and women, he said 70 per cent will find the shoes allow them to walk better. He said the shoes reduce the symptoms of several of the most common foot problems.

Among these are hammer toes, bunions on the big and little toes, and calluses on the ball of the foot.

"The most significant contribution of the Earth shoe is that it is as wide as the foot and relieves many symptoms associated with pressure on the foot," he said. "It is the first shoe designed to fit the foot, and not the eye."

Almost everybody's first two weeks in the shoes is a bit rocky, he said, as they tend to lean backwards and their calf muscles tighten.

Earth shoes were conceived in 1969 by Anne Kalso, a Danish costume designer and yoga expert. She noticed sandprints of primitive peoples in which the heels sunk lower than the toes, and designed shoes intended to promote straighter spines.

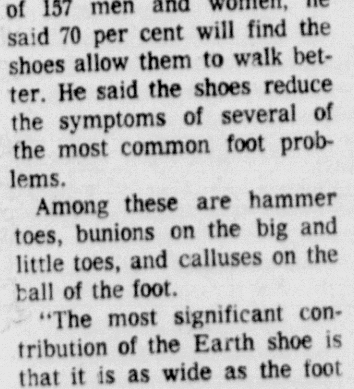
Three injured when jetliner hits rough air

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three passengers aboard a Hughes Air-West jetliner were injured Wednesday night when the craft encountered severe turbulence near Palm Springs.

A Federal Aviation Administration official said the three passengers, who were not identified, were transported to Centinela Valley Hospital after the plane landed here at 7:26 p.m. Their condition was not known.

The jet, flight 583 from Phoenix via Blythe, Calif., was bound for Palm Springs. The craft encountered turbulence and was unable to land at Palm Springs, the FAA spokesman said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS



The high and low temperature records of the National Weather Service included in The World Almanac tend to support the theory that the U.S. climate is cooling off. Up to 1972, the last time a new state record for heat was established was in the summer of 1954 but new cold weather records have been set in eight states in five different years since 1957.

Photographed in Sevilla, Spain, where the flamenco dancers have a lot of loyal fans. Admittedly, that copy of the Progress-Bulletin in the scene may seem a bit unusual, but, then, we always seem to find ourselves doing unusual things in unusual places.

We help fan some beautiful causes . . .

We help fan enthusiasm for various causes. That's OK, because promotion of worthy community endeavors is one of your hometown newspaper's important jobs. Advertisers pay for their use of these pages to help them sell. But non-commercial and civic organizations can often count on the Progress-Bulletin to cheer them on without cost if they're doing something which will help our town and neighboring communities. So if you've got a a beautiful cause, tell us about it. We may even turn out to be one of your most loyal fans.
